*I*N THIS Volume we have endeavored to reproduce some photographs and drawings, express gratitude to our benefactors, honor the departed, give records of the accomplished and the strong, caricature some folk, season some topics with a spray of quieting oil, and lend relish to others with a dash of salt and pepper—in general, a picture of our college days as a memento of our class.

HON. JOHN B. COOKE, A. M.

CLERK of the Supreme Court of the State of Colorado; President of the Alumni Association of Bucknell University; for more than a quarter of a century a devoted friend and generous contributor to his Alma Mater; a Soldier who endured the hardships and perils of field and camp throughout the great civil war, although four times wounded and stricken down in defense of the stars and stripes, yet he remained an undaunted soldier to the finish of the war; a faithful Minister of the Gospel for more than ten years, regretfully withdrawing from abundantly blessed pulpit labors only when cruelly attacked by old time soldier wounds; a Citizen whose busy life is worthy of praise and whose example is worthy of emulation:

DR. LEMUEL MOSS

Was one of the strongest and best men of his generation. Born in comparative poverty, and without early educational advantages, he worked his way through the college and the theological seminary, and at once took high rank as a scholar and preacher. The first few years of his active life after graduation were spent in the pastorate, and as a pastor he did a most successful work. So successful was he, in fact, that he was called to be the Secretary of the Christian Commission, and on the termination of the work of that admirable organization, he wrote a history of the Commission, which is, to this day, the best book upon the subject. From 1865 to 1868 he was on the faculty of Bucknell University, and did work which is still remembered by those who were members of his classes. Subsequently he became an editor, then again took a professor's chair, was for a short while president of the University of Chicago, afterward president of the Indiana University, editor of the "Ensign," and in more recent years again pastor of a Baptist Church. In all of these positions Dr. Moss manifested exceptional ability, and did most enduring work. His scholarship was wide and deep. His editorial articles were virile, and largely influential in moulding public opinion. He was deeply interested in the work of the Baptist denomination, and was a leader in the settlement of many large questions brought before the denomination. Personally he was a genial and delightful companion; whole hearted and true in his friendships. Taking him all in all, he was a representative Christian man, and deserves to be long held in the memory of the world.

SENIOR CLASS POEM

Far in the western sky in the gloom of dusky light,
Far in the western sky where the moon is growing pale,
Sighing, the weary wind, with a sob now leaves the night;
Seeking the early dawn where the amber colors trail.

Low in the eastern sky in a line of dewy light,
Low in the eastern sky in a line of grayish blue,
Trembles the sweet young day with the thrills of new delight,
Hushed by the silent shade, by the braid of purple hue.

High in the arch of sky in the glimmer of half light,
High in the arch of sky where the stars of morning weep,
Shivers the pure white day in her cloak of purple light,
Quivers the glad new day where the flames of saffron leap.

Dawn of a golden day with its hope of purest light,
Youth in the life of man with its hope of one true gift,
Grasping the rosy hues and the threads of brightest light,
Turning at last from these when the clouds of myst'ry lift,
To the stars he sends his prayer.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

THE end of our college life at Old Bucknell is approaching fast. We have taken the successive steps which lead to that stage where we are known as grave Seniors and look back upon the past opportunities with regret. At first time passed slowly, but it has gradually accelerated its pace till at last it seems to have taken wings. It seems but yesterday that we entered one hundred and six strong; since then many have dropped by the wayside, and one of our number, Samuel Eugene Flack, has been called to his Eternal Home. He has been missed at every turn and will long be held in memory as a true and loyal member of 1905. At present we number seventy-eight, of whom fifty-two are charter members.

During the time we spent here many changes have taken place. Our surroundings have been beautified, several new buildings have been erected, heating and lighting plants have been established, and our magnificent Library will be completed ere we leave. Great as have been these outward changes, the gradual and imperceptible changes that have been wrought in our own members are even greater. Foolishness has been put away, self-esteem has been eliminated, false notions corrected, eccentricities lost, and each bundle of mingled conceit, hope, and ambition wrapped in its verdant garb has been moulded into a strong, self-sustaining personality which now dwells in new realms of thought with new aspirations of future usefulness. Such have been the benign influences of those under whose care we have been placed, and the effect of our college associations.

Now let us look at the events of the past. Naughty five has been fast making history and has been playing the dominant part in college affairs since our entrance. We have much to be proud of, more than is consistent with our standing as seniors for boasting. Our athletes are more numerous than the combined athletes of all the other classes, our class standing the highest, and our orators the most spell-binding. It is needless to review the events of the past four years, as they have already been lauded far and wide, but it is fitting and proper that we should chronicle the most important events of the last year.

The first notable event was the "Junior Prom", which was an occasion graced by our numerous friends, and was a brilliant success (socially). The Junior Exhibition in Oratory was the most successful held in recent years, while our debaters are still the talk of the college. Under the management of our class every department of college life has been quickened. We claim three men on last year's baseball team, of whom two have been captains; five men on the basketball team, of whom two have been captains; and a track team that has twice been victorious over the other classes. We have also had two Varsity track captains. On the football team we have had five men, of whom two are captains, and many are the games that have been won for the Orange and Blue by the individual work of one or more of our stars. Our dramatic ability stands out predominant. The college publications were never so flourishing as at present. We find that the "Orange and Blue" is one of the cheapest and among the foremost publications of its kind, while the "Mirror" is fast winning fame through its charming stories and verses. The Y. M. C. A., and other similar Christian interests, have attained an unprecedented influence in the life of the college. In the meantime our studies have not been neglected: 1905 has maintained a class standing second to none in or out of the college. Knowledge has not only been our aim, but rather the more valuable acquisition—wisdom.

All too soon we will separate; each one must buckle on his armor to meet and fight life's battles, some in the professions, others as great leaders in thought and action, some in more humble stations, but all, we trust, as true men and women. As life's shadows lengthen and silver locks wreath our brows, may the tender recollections of years spent here keep our hearts young; and as our paths diverge and lead us far apart, may we, reflecting credit and honor upon our Alma Mater, ever be united in the bonds of good-fellowship, and ever remain loyal members of 1905.

JUNIOR CLASS POEM

School years are the firm foundations
On which each may build his life,
And the way in which we use them
Marks out progress in the strife.
Every year we spend in study
From beginning to the end,
Is a factor in existence,
Gives each life its special trend.
Time is coming for us, Juniors,
When we'll leave these classic halls,
When we'll take up Life in earnest,
Hearken when stern Duty calls.
If in school we live as Life's worth,
Utilize each passing hour,
Knowledge will be added to us,
Wisdom, influence, and power.
Then when years of preparation
Finished are and left behind,
Strong of body and of spirit,
Strong of heart and strong of mind,
Each one in his chosen pathway
Striving, working, long and well,
May a jewel be of brilliance
In the crown of Old Bucknell.
So, boys, I've a toast to offer,
Let us sound it far and wide:
"Here is to our Alma Mater,
And to Nineteen-six, her pride."

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

HIS history must begin with an apology, for it is impossible that I give the world at large any definite idea of what we did in our Freshman year for the most excellent reason that I was not here, and consequently I can only cry with Cicero, "Non mea culpa." The class should have taken this into account at my election and I would have if it had been allowed; but Pat Bovard first nominated me, and then calmly and dispassionately sat on me until my election, and the adjournment of the meeting made escape from my blushing honors impossible.

But the consensus of academic opinion as it has since been voiced in many an after midnight smoke-talk, is that we did about as we pleased, thus forming a habit and a precedent which we have faithfully striven to follow ever since. At the beginning of our Sophomore year things took a very even trend. We hazed and clipped such of the Freshmen as we thought needed it, and generally thrashed them into slightly more presentable shape. About this time a number of our class decided to room down town, as they found the dormitories too noisy to be conducive to mental concentration; we of course regretted their loss but were glad that they went no farther away from us than they did.

According to custom we posted our "Proclamations" to the Freshmen, containing certain rules and regulations, which they took care religiously to follow. It was this same night that the Seminary clothes-line was so foully stripped—and in consequence the dear girls suffered much annoyance and some deprivations—but as the authorities never discovered the perpetrators of this dastardly act we mention it only incidentally. We waited for the Freshmen to retaliate and post "Proclamations" of their own but they hesitated and hesitated until we, out of very ennui, gave them permission to post whatever they liked and whenever they liked, and withdrew our watchmen from their nocturnal patrol.

Next we won our football game from the aforementioned class, and a few weeks afterwards in the "Paint Scrap" gave them a stinging lesson in the idiotic naughtiness of coming out at night.

In the winter term we inadvertently lost to them in basketball and when they attempted to celebrate in a manner which we considered too boisterous we very properly and very soundly spanked them.

The Spring term brought our plans for a Sophomore Cotillion to completion. This dance was to have been the first of its kind at Bucknell, in fact the first Sophomore dance in the history of the place, and would undoubtedly have been a success had not smallpox appeared in Lewisburg and the Armory put in quarantine.

Disappointed in our dance we turned our attention to track work and easily won second place in the Inter-Class contest, giving way only to the present Seniors, and defeating the present Sophomores and last year's Seniors by a very decisive score. After these events we pursued the even tenor of our way into Junior year.

At the beginning of this year we came back—somewhat less in numbers and with gaps in our ranks where some much missed and regretted comrades once stood—calmly conscious of our unassailable dignity of upper-classmen, now free from all fistic obligations towards other ranks of associate students.

As Juniors it was our duty to help the Freshmen in every way in our power, and we did aid them with advice and counsel; helped them to organize; helped them to resist undue oppression; helped them with their football team; helped them with their "Proclamations" until the Sophomores complained and cried again and again that it was unfair, and that they had never received such help from their Juniors.

The day of the Freshman-Sophomore football game, we and the Seniors mutually disgraced ourselves and each other by a class rush and scrap which began in fun, but ended in sober vicious earnest. Imagine for yourself the two Upper-Classes of Bucknell University, attired in their sweet resplendent best, at four-thirty on an autumn afternoon, fighting like terriers for the amusement of under-classmen, co-eds, preps and muckers.

The efforts of our class this year have been mainly turned toward producing L'AGENDA which will take the breath from all that have come before, and which will serve as a standard of excellence for many, many years to come. Of course we can't be sure yet about the ones to come, that is, not absolutely sure, but we are certain that we have accomplished what we wished with respect to those of previous years.

Our latest triumph has been our Junior dance, the Promenade which undoubtedly eclipsed anything which Bucknell has ever known and will be high water mark—no unmeaning figure of speech on our campus, by the way—of college dances until we again surpass ourselves at our Commencement Assembly. Incidentally it is the only Promenade in the history of the institution which has come out so successful from a financial standpoint. And with the chronicling of this last propitious fact my duty ends.

JUNIORS

FLORENCE LOUISE BACON,
Pi Beta Phi

Canton

Prepared at Canton High School; L'AGENDA Board; Freshman Declamation Contest; Winner of Freshman Essay Prize; Latin Philosophical Course.

The subject of this sketch was born in Canton, Pa., in 1885. She was always a very serious student, and was graduated from Canton High School at a very early age. From thence she came to Bucknell with the class of 1906 to which she is a great honor. Very few know "Porrie" as she really is, but if once she is thoroughly known it will be admitted by all that she is extremely amiable and pleasing.

J. RILEY BAILEY,

Greensburg

Prepared at Greensburg Seminary; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Physical and Chemical Society; L'AGENDA Board; Classical Course; Medical Missionary.

"Bill" has the honor of being the only Junior who has seen service in the Philippines. That he did not become Major-General and Governor of our Asiatic possessions is not owing to lack of ability on Mr. Bailey's part, but is entirely due to the obtuseness of the officials of the War Department. Mr. Bailey has the ankle bones of eleven Filipinos strung on a ramrod, a trophy of the extraordinary feat of shooting twelve Filipinos with one bullet.

G. EBERT BARTLETT, - Webster, West Va.

Prepared at Broadus Institute, West Va.; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Alpha Sigma Oratorical Club; Physical and Chemical Society; Chairman Literary Committee, L'AGENDA; Greek Philosophical Course; Ministry.

Words are not adequate to describe this member of 1906. Born at a tender age among the mountains of West Virginia, he early learned to dig Latin roots and to climb amid the springing branches of Greek stems. Not content with this knowledge he came to Bucknell to learn how to measure the distance from zero to infinity and to develop the resources of a hungry look. His progress is wonderful.

AMOS ETHAN BARTON, - - - Vilas

Prepared at Bucknell Academy; Theta Alpha Literary Society; L'AGENDA Board; Classical Course; Foreign Missionary.

If compliments were in order we would gladly hand one out to Amos; but the case is otherwise. He takes the world in a most frolicsome manner and is a rather conspicuous "cut-up." The most astonishing thing that Barton has done during his college course was to venture a translation for "Au Diable" in good idiomatic English.

EDWIN ANTHONY BEAVER, - Huntingdon
Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Delta Sigma, Theta Delta Tau

Prepared at Huntingdon High School; Euepia Literary Society; Class Basketball Team (1); Latin Scientific Course; Business.

"Gov" is a kind and gentle fellow (though somewhat of a thug), always happy and quite imperturbable. He is always glad to see you whoever you are. He boasts of the fact that he has never visited the "Sem" during his course, and congratulates himself for his never having held "sweet communion" with the "lodies."

P. S.—The College Girls' Reception has brought a change; he is now playing a game of duplicity at all public appearances.

ELBERT LITTLE BLAKESLEE, - Montrose

Prepared at Keystone Academy; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Mandolin and Guitar Club; Philosophical Course; Teaching.

This promising youth of a score or more years cannot help making his mark in the world. His deep sonorous voice; his intellectual calibre; his corpulent build—these make him a roaring Zeus among men and a — — — among the "co-eds."

NORMAN EUGENE BLISS, - Washington, D. C.

Prepared at Washington High School; Entered Bucknell as Junior from Columbian University; Classical Course; Mining Engineering.

Always—behind—like—an—old—cow's—tail Bliss was driven from the embroidery of Washington, D. C. The way he runs the Bell Telephone is something astounding; fifty minutes at a time during the day hours are a source of much comfort to him, and expense to some one else. If he had taken his under classman years here, no doubt he would have furnished much to write about.

SOPHIA LOUISA BODLER, - Germania
Delta Delta Delta

Prepared at Mansfield State Normal School; Class Secretary (3); L'AGENDA Board; Classical Course; Teaching.

Sophia Louisa came to our school after graduating from the Mansfield State Normal. She is a "whiz" in her classes and attends strictly to her studies. This fact is much more to her credit because she is given to flirting, a thing which is not generally conducive to study. Her pathetic brown eyes, her German accent and her merry laugh make her very attractive and charming.

NORRIS LEVIS BROWN, - - - West Chester

Prepared at West Chester State Normal School; Euepia Literary Society; Classical Course; Ministry.

The Hermit of the class is "Father Brown." You will know him by his unconfined, unshorn locks; his truant mustache; and dyspeptic aspect. West Wing gossips tell us that he sees through his glasses blueely. He finds infinite pleasure in his "Self-made Talks about my Auto Girl."

JOHN IRA CATHERMAN, - - - Lewisburg

Prepared at Lewisburg High School; Physical and Chemical Society; Engineering Course; Civil Engineering.

Of his charming manners and dignified courtesy we will say nothing, his undaunted courage we will not speak of, we will even pass over his good looks and gentle voice, we will also omit all mention of his feats of strength and deeds of daring, but there are two things we cannot get over nor even around—his feet.

JOSEPH LEIGHTON CHALLIS, - - - Waverly
Alpha Tau Delta

Prepared at Keystone Academy; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Jurisprudence Course; Law.

"Fighting Joe" is noted more for his gameness than for his size. He claimed to be able to whip his weight in wildcats. His claim was admitted when he was weighed and it was found that his weight amounted to just half a wildcat.

BURLEIGH CLAYPOOL, - - Kittanning

Prepared at Clarion Normal School; Euepia Literary Society; Class Football Team (1,2); Class Basketball Team (1,2), Captain (1); Assistant Manager Varsity Basketball Team (3); Latin Philosophical Course; Medicine.

According to Burleigh's visage he has designs on the ministry. There is no doubt that he would make a good one; a protrusion of the frontal bone, indicative of oratorical gift; a benign and placid countenance; rather lengthy in stature; and political strategy of unusual tact—these are his qualifications. Withal, Burleigh is one of the strenuous and is destined for a prosperous future.

FLORENCE JEANNETTE COBB, - Coudersport
Pi Beta Phi, C. E. A.

Prepared at Coudersport High School; Girls' Dramatic Club; L'AGENDA Board; Freshman Declamation Contest; Classical Course; Kindergarten.

Of Florence it can be said: for all "She has a voice of gladness and a smile." Sprightly, agile and happy, she lends a silver hue to the seeming clouds which occasionally envelop the more sombre of the choice spirits among whom she flits,—surely a gladsome benediction.

HAROLD NEWTON COLE, - Shingle House
Delta Theta Upsilon

Prepared at Shingle House High School; Euepia Literary Society; Physical and Chemical Society; Declamation Contest (1); Inter-Society Debate (1); Toast, Class Banquet (2); Junior Promenade Committee; Class Banquet Committee (2); Latin Philosophical Course; Medicine.

Cole has the reputation for circling among the ladies most successfully. He is rather hard to suit, objectively, hence his migratory bent. Cole will end up O. K. somewhere, let us hope; for what a sad calamity it would be to see him thus continue his bounding around from rock to rock like a mountain goat.

CLARENCE BURNAP COMSTOCK, - - - Grover

Prepared at Canton High School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Class Baseball Team (1, 2); Class Basketball Team (2, 3); Varsity Track Team (2); Science Course.

This dispensation of terror with his nemensic hand struck a shivering awe into the hearts of the present Soph's in their Freshmen days. He comes from the timbers of Canton and until his Junior year had not lost his Indian propensities. His scalp trophies are numerous and variegated.

WILLIAM THOMAS COVERDALE, - - - Erie

Prepared at Bucknell Academy; Class President (2); Class Banquet Committee (1); Classical Course; Ministry.

We now present to an admiring public the smiling face of "Pa" Coverdale. Much to his own satisfaction Brother Coverdale takes advice from Prexie in homeopathic doses. It is said that one of "Pa's" sermons wrung tears from the eyes of the head of Liberty on a silver dollar which reposed in the pocket of one of his flock.

WILLIAM EUGENE DEMELT, - South Westerlo, N. Y.

Prepared at Greenville Academy, N. Y.; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Alpha Sigma Oratorical Club; MIRROR Staff (2); L'AGENDA Board; Captain, Class Baseball Team (1); Junior Debate; Latin Philosophical Course; Teaching.

We take pleasure in introducing to you here our married man No. 2. Eugene's a pretty boy, at least that's what his wife says, and mighty bright too—else he knows how to pull the Prof's leg. He has never been known to make anything higher than an ex. since he came to Bucknell.

JOHN G. DENNINGER, - Great Valley, N. Y.

Prepared at Salamanca High School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Captain, Class Track Team (1); Varsity Track Team (2); Class Vice-President (3); Classical Course; Teaching.

* "Digitigrade" Denninger is the "Mercury" as well as the "sweet singer" of 1906. He entered Bucknell as a preacher, now aspires to be a teacher, will undoubtedly end as a "bummer." Denninger as a social favorite shines like the dog-star on a rainy night:—church socials and Johnny Showers are his long suit.

* Steele's Zoology.

HARVEY OSCAR DIETRICH, - Klimesville

Prepared at Keystone State Normal School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Classical Course; Ministry.

Concerning "Deit," the poet's pen in a fit of "frenzy rolling" did exclaim:

Oh well—he's Dutch and he dosen't say much,
For he hasn't got much to say,
And he has a bald spot on the top of his knot
Where the hair has been all pulled away.
He's as meek as a lamb and as cool as a clam,
And in silence time passes away,
He'll never say much for he'll always be Dutch
And he'll never have much to say.

LINN CLARK DRAKE, - - Tunkhannock
Alpha Tau Delta

Prepared at Keystone Academy; Euepia Literary Society; Manager, Class Baseball Team (1); Winner Freshman Declamation Prize; Junior Debate; Classical Course; Ministry.

This prattling, quacking diminutive is famous within our confines as well as around the neighboring village. His favorite occupations are posting notices on the bulletin board (and "soakin" those that read "em"), and walking with the ladies. Though small in stature, he will persist in mingling with the more towering dames. We predict for Linn a large wife as well as a large church.

WILLIAM LEISER DONEHOWER, - - - Lewisburg

Prepared at Lewisburg High School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Special Course; Business.

"Froth" Donehower's specialty is a practical application of Oratory and Ethics. It is not his fault that his tongue is hinged in the middle and wags at both ends. He is renowned for clothing the least amount of thought in the greatest number of words. He will be remembered for what he hasn't done.

ANDREW CURTIS FEINOUR, - - - Shamokin Dam
Delta Theta Upsilon

Prepared at Turbotville High School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Alpha Sigma Oratorical Club; L'AGENDA Board; Declamation Contest (1); Class Historian (1); Jurisprudence Course; Law.

Well, here's old "Seltzer Bottle." He never goes unless someone pushes him. He actually claims to have seen a snail but it must have overtaken and passed him for he has never moved fast enough to catch up with one. His motto:

"A little more folding of the hands to rest,
A little more nodding of the head to sleep."

FREDERICK VORIS FOLLMER, - - - Milton

Prepared at Milton High School and Perkiomen Seminary; Euepia Literary Society; Assistant Editor L'AGENDA; Latin Philosophical Course; Law.

Always on his "Uppers."

This distinguished and eminently worthy Junior has all the graces of a Chesterfield, the courage of "Bob" Acres, and the virtues of a Woggle-bug. The way he "turns down" the class treasurer three times a year is quite refreshing. He reminds one of a buzz-saw, more "buzz" than "saw," and very little "buzz." As Assistant Editor of this publication the products of his pen have flowed with such regularity and brilliance that the editorial office took fire and the whole of the manuscript barely escaped destruction.

SARA CYRENA FURMAN, - - - Wellsboro
Pi Beta Phi

Prepared at Wellsboro High School; ORANGE AND BLUE Staff (3); Latin Philosophical Course.

This is one of Wellsboro's rarest productions and one of the stars of 1906. She is always happy, light, and gay, skipping and bounding along like a fawn in the woodlands taking the whole world as a joke. "How Furma' found Gardner" is problematical, but the place is known. Oh no! She would not skip for the world.

BENAJAH JACK GARDNER, - - - Factoryville
Alpha Tau Delta

Prepared at Keystone Academy; Euepia Literary Society; Treasurer Athletic Association (3); Jurisprudence Course; Law.

Benajah hails from the woods of Factoryville. "Jack" is a fellow whom everybody likes; a sort of harmless, unobtrusive, seclusive lad who takes great pleasure in his own company. He is very coquettish and has been reported as having received a box, or two, of fudge from the "Sem." "Twere well that he were more alacrious."

GEORGE MCCRACKEN GASKILL, - - - Newport, N. J.

Prepared at West Jersey Academy; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Physical and Chemical Society; Class Football Team (1); Varsity Relay Team (2); Science Course; Chemist.

"Withal I must have Chemistry." This is the cry of our "winged footed" friend. He is married to his profession. We are told that George values the benefits he derived from the study of Psychology at not less than one thousand bones. His fortune is assured.

MAURICE FRANK GOLDSMITH,
Alpha Tau Delta

Carnegie

Prepared at Carnegie High School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Class Basketball Team (1,2,3); Captain (3); Class Football Team (1,2); L'AGENDA Board; Classical Course; Medicine.

"I'm the goat, what's the joke."

Our "ward politician" as a Freshman was a source of considerable anxiety and much expense to the doughty warriors of 1905. In their name we present this bill:

To one broken sleigh,	$ 8.00
To one sick horse,	20.00
To one beautiful pair of black eyes,	3.00
To one "Booze,"	18.00
Total,	$49.00

JOHN WALLACE GREEN,

Norristown

Prepared at Ursinus, and Bucknell Academy; Class Football Team (1,2); Class Baseball Team (2); Latin Philosophical Course; Ministry.

Well, here is ferocious John Wallace. He is one of the real naughty boys of the notorious "fourth floor." In fact the questionable way in which he keeps his room has been the subject of much discussion by the "Hall Association" for good government. How rightly to divide his time among the ladies, the studies, and the usual college pranks of a wayward boy perplexes John occasionally.

EDWIN WINGERT GUNDY,
Phi Kappa Psi

Lewisburg

Prepared at Bucknell Academy; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Chemistry Course; Chemist.

Mr. Gundy is one of the noisiest young men in the college and remarkable for his vivacity. His "long suit" is the mechanical perfection with which he uses the art of flirtation. To caricature him otherwise than a lady's man would be grotesque. He is true to ancestral failings: much calling at the "Sem" is his delight.

GEORGE BAILEY HARRIS, - - - Lewisburg
Phi Gamma Delta

Prepared at Bucknell Academy; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Biological Course.

"In the race of man he surely will be last." There is good authority for the statement that George is a near relative of Prexie. The only resemblance, however, that has yet been discovered is the similarity of names. George is of an extremely shy and retiring disposition. He is especially quiet when being questioned in class.

ROMAIN CALVIN HASSRICK, - - - Muncy
Delta Theta Upsilon

Prepared at Muncy and Williamsport High Schools; Euepia Literary Society; Classical Course; Journalism.

Our friend "Fuzzy," the author (of much misery) is evidently destined for a great and glorious career. His classmates fondly hope to see him walking in the footsteps of a great man (carrying the great man's suit case). Romain is the general agent for Madam Uptosnuff's curling irons. If one should desire to see these irons work, Romain will be pleased to make a practical demonstration at his usual hour, 7:30 a m.

ARMEL BOLTZ HEFFLING, - - - Mt. Pleasant

Prepared at Western Pennsylvania Classical and Scientific Institute; Theta Alpha Literary Society; L'AGENDA Board; Jurisprudence Course; Law.

This bearded soldier of the "Battle Ax" type is most excellent in his art; he is a firm believer in the theory that "art is for art's sake." "Hef" is a hard student and one of unusual promise. Give him his "Battle Ax" and legal knowledge and he'll make the Bar look like a cuspidor.

JOHN FRANKLIN HENNESSY. - - - Irwin
Phi Kappa Psi

Prepared at Bucknell Academy; Euepia Literary Society; Bucknell Minstrels; Physical and Chemical Society; T Square Club; Class Banquet Committee (1); Class Football Team (1, 2); Class Basketball Team (1, 2); Class Baseball Team (1, 2); Specializing in English.

"Jack" says: "They call me 'Spoik,' but non a dem kin thrun it into me about me 'physog.' " Hennessy's claim to lineal descent from Ireland holds good, if conduct and army-shirt have any weight. Let it not be assumed: Jack is by no means green in the ways of the world.

LEROY W. HOON, - - - Monongahela
Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Sigma, Theta Delta Tau, Alpha Kappa Alpha.

Prepared at Monongahela High School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Physical and Chemical Society; Minstrels; Class Football Team (1, 2); Assistant Artist L'AGENDA Board; Scientific Course; Magazine Illustrating.

"Bruiser," as the boys call him, is the noisiest lad on fourth floor, W. C. He is hale and, from his picture, doubtless hearty. His favorite pastime is rolling trunks up and down the hall and making trouble for Prex. Everybody likes him and speaks kindly concerning him. A good reliable fellow.

CHARLES M. HOWELL, JR., - - - Northumberland
Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Delta Sigma

Prepared at Northumberland High School; Euepia Literary Society; Physical and Chemical Society; Class Football Team (1, 2); Class Baseball Team (1, 2), Captain (2); Science Course.

"Limp's" specialties seem to be throwing a baseball and assassinating motormen; he does both with grace and polish. Incidentally he comes from Northumberland, which is a very good place to come from—as quickly as possible—and has an impediment in his speech, which, however, is not serious enough to keep him from eating the rations of four ordinary men.

WALTER JARRETT, - - - - Sunbury

Prepared at Sunbury High School; Assistant Editor L'AGENDA; Jurisprudence Course; Law.

To see him walking about the campus you'd think he's completely undone, or else he was never done—slow, slovenly, sleepy, Sunberrian. We expected he'd improve when he got to rooming on the hill, but our fondest hopes have been blasted in this unfortunate youth.

HENRY JONES, - - - - Plymouth

Prepared at Plymouth High School; Euepia Literary Society; Demosthenian Oratorical Club; Toast at Banquet (2); Declamation Contest, Prize (2); Latin Philosophical Course; Law.

Henry claims to be a descendant from St. David and a native from the "land of song." He has no authentic family tree by which to prove these claims, but he argues thus: In the first place St. David was a Welshman, and, in the second place, the St.'s last name was Jones. These arguments reinforced by Henry's religious turn of mind are sufficient.

AUGUSTUS SHERIDAN KECK, - - - Snow Shoe
Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Sigma

Prepared at C. S. Normal School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; ORANGE AND BLUE Board (1,2); Class Banquet Committee (1); Manager Varsity Football Team (4); Junior Promenade Committee; Scientific Course; Medicine.

Augustus has no foibles. He will furnish no occasion for argument, neither does he talk like one of the back end of a wagon. It is impossible to kick this imperturbable fellow into a fight. But his laugh covers a multitude of "stabs" in "American Literature." Gum Stump is proud of him.

HAZEL LOUISE KNAPP, - - - Bristol, Ind.

Entered Junior from Lake Erie College; Latin Philosophical Course.

Miss Knapp joined our class this year so we can hardly give a glowing history of her. But judging from what we have seen we should say that she has always enjoyed herself and received much good out of life. She is very reserved and never makes any advances, and for this reason very few are really acquainted with her.

CHARLES AARON KNUPP, - - - Penbrook

Prepared at Penbrook High School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Physical and Chemical Society; Class Treasurer (3); Scientific Course; Teaching.

This is our Sister Knupp. Large, luscious brown eyes with piquant lips, and retrousse nose give an air of loveliness too utterly utter for description. Knuppy's specialty is Psychology; recites it by the yard while Prexie looks helplessly on. One question, however, he can not answer, and that is: "Why is Knupp."

EDITH E. LANE, - - - Ulysses
Pi Beta Phi

Prepared at Lewisville High School; Class Banquet Committee (2); Poem, Class Banquet (2); Declamation Contest (1); Latin Philosophical Course.

While gazing on this, one is forced to exclaim: "What a rare gem." Wherever she goeth she bringeth gladness and sunshine. For the sick she always hath a smile and a bottle of smart weed tea; for the well she hath a joke and a good story to tell. Her goodness is excelled only by her angelic face. To know her is to love her.

ROBERT B. LEIGHOU,
Phi Gamma Delta

Northumberland

Prepared at Northumberland High School; Physical and Chemical Society; Junior Promenade Committee; Class Football Team (1,2); Class Basketball Team (1); Class Track Team (2); Science Course; Chemistry.

"Bob" is a quiet, self-possessed young man, not given to rapid motion, neither is he easily aroused. He is quite a satisfactory student and has been a pillar of strength to the class in many a dark struggle.

HENRY JOHNSON LOSE, - - - Williamsport

Entered as Sophomore from Lehigh; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Mandolin and Guitar Club; Class Historian (3); L'AGENDA Artist; Junior Promenade Committee; Special Course; Engineering.

This came to us by way of Lehigh; it is rather precocious and very loquacious. As a wielder of the vernacular cudgel and the satirical brush, it excels. It belongs to a school of humor quite unique—extremely pathetic. Like Shakespeare's "Toad . . . wears yet a precious jewel": unfeigned loyalty to the college of its first choice.

JOSEPH CIPRIANO MACRO, - - - Reynoldsville

Prepared at Bucknell Academy; Theta Alpha Literary Society, Vice-President (3); Classical Course; Ministry.

"Joe" has the unique distinction of being the only Democrat in college. Just before election "Joe" went up to see the Judge and was permitted to take a ride on the party emblem. The odds were even as to who felt the worse—"Joe" or the Donkey. In climbing up the Tree of Knowledge "Joe" received many a hard knock, but in spite of bumped nose and skinned elbows, he now enjoys the fruit that grows so plentifully about him.

CARRIE MAE McCASKIE, - East Orange, N. J.
Delta Delta Delta, C. E. A.

Prepared at Peddie Institute; Class Secretary (2); Girls' Dramatic Club.

This beautiful "Scotch Queen," as she is fittingly called, is one of the brightest and most delightful maidens in the class. With her bland smile, and omitted r's, together with her pretty Scotch accent, she becomes a girl whom everybody loves.

CLAY MONTGOMERY McCORMICK, - Lock Haven
Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Prepared at Central State Normal School; Chairman, Junior Promenade Committee; Classical Course.

"Mud," as the boys otherwise, or fittingly, call him, is famous for his "Texas Steer" laugh; when he laughs, the world cries. He, unlike the "Wise Men," goes Southeast—this statement is for the benefit of Clay's friends and the object of his extended trips. In shaping this chunk of clay, Dame Nature lavished her grace, imbued it with thoughts dreamy and poetic, and fashioned it into a stunning society youth.

CATHERINE FRASER MACLAGGAN, - Lewisburg

Entered as Junior; Classical Course; Teaching.

Miss McLaggan entered Bucknell in the fall of 1904 with the Junior class. Very few have become acquainted with her, for she is rather timid and bashful. Whenever a stranger casts an admiring eye in her direction, she immediately turns away. She has very rosy cheeks and a sweet smile and is, no doubt, amiable to those who know her.

GRACE LENORE MEEK,
Delta Delta Delta

Reynoldsville

Prepared at Reynoldsville High School; Latin Philosophical Course.

This flaxen-haired fairy came to our school in 1902, and has steadily and faithfully toiled onward until today she is one of the brightest stars in our class. It would be useless to attempt to set forth her talents, so many are they. She plays and sings so divinely that even the birds and dumb beasts must pause and listen. She is very artistic and has a wonderful love for the aesthetic. After completing her college course Lenore expects to teach dancing in the Seminary.

HENRY TAYLOR MYER, - - - Rebersburg

Prepared at Schuylkill Seminary and Bucknell Academy; Euepia Literary Society; Alpha Sigma Oratorical Club; Classical Course; Law.

"Hen" is a lad possessed with very fine sensibilities. There are three distinct characteristics which stand out prominently in his make-up, viz.: bookishness, coquetry and expository "gab." If you want to know all the details, or an opinion about any book from "Mother Goose Rhymes" down to "Socrates' Immortality of the Soul," inquire from Henry. He has been connected with the institution for seven years, and during that time is said to have cleaned his room once. When asked why he did it he replied: "I'm informed Dr. Groff has designs on me."

HARRY LYMAN MILLER, - - - Wiconisco

Prepared at Wiconisco High School; Engineering Course; Civil Engineer.

In speaking of this member of our class we would do well to bid the celestials dip their golden pen in heavenly sunshine and write with gentle hand the gilt-edged story of this glowing youth. He is a remarkable student, a most sociable fellow,—hail-fellow-well-met—and up-to-date in appearance. For further particulars look Miller up.

CARL LYON MILLWARD, - - Mt. Pleasant
Delta Theta Upsilon

Prepared at Mt. Pleasant Institute; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Declamation Contest (1); Class Baseball Team (1,2); Class Track Team (1,2), Captain (2); L'AGENDA Board; Class President (3); Latin Philosophical Course; Teaching.

Carl is full of reminiscences of Freshman stunts and such like. How the world wags is of no concern to him. His main care is watching the chapel clock and hibernating for the remainder of the recitation. Asperity and alacrity are not in his lexicon. His favorite books of reading are: "Skimming the Milky Way," and "Lighting the Northern Lamps."

MARY MONTFORD MOLL, - - Mahanoy City

Prepared at Mahanoy City High School; Declamation Contest (1); Classical Course; Teaching.

Miss "Maul," as she prefers to be called, is difficult to caricature. However, we must say pretty things about her, else offensive incense may burn at our feet. She is a placid maiden, not easily perturbed, displaying, at times, notable self-possession. The askance look she occasionally casts leads us to believe her opposed to co-education. Hard luck, Millward and Park!

JAMES THEODORE PARK, - - Montandon

Prepared at Lewisburg and Montandon High Schools; Science Course.

Park is one of the suburban residents of Lewisburg. A kindly hand hath Nature used in thus favoring us with so "unique a gentleman." Harmless, unobtrusive, and silent, Park will make his mark somewhere in the world.

HOMER DERIAL PEASE, - - - Chinchilla

Prepared at Keystone Academy; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Freshman Declamation Contest; Secretary Y. M. C. A.; Classical Course; Ministry.

Homer Derial is the Demosthenes, the Luther, and the Pittsburg Aluminum Utensil Company of our class. He is said to have "flim-flammed" more Ladies Aid Societies and Family Reunions with his "handy kettle steamers and percolated pots" during the past summer, than all the rest of his followers in that pursuit. Homer is an arduous student and a member of the Sons of Temperance. He has a reputation for early rising. Bugle call,—Students cuss.

B. EARL PHILLIPS, - - - New Bethlehem

Prepared at Clarion State Normal School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Alpha Sigma Oratorical Club; Inter Society Debate (2); Jurisprudence Course; Law.

This youth with meteoric countenance of unusual brilliance has the reputation for slinging words most successfully. What there is of him to describe ought to be handled in the superlative; hence no description. Withal, Phillips has the necessary adjunct of a great man, a great name, and promise of acquiring the rest.

THOMAS BENJAMIN POWELL, - - - Scranton
Delta Upsilon (Colgate)

Prepared at Keystone Academy; Entered Sophomore from Colgate; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Editor-in-Chief of L'AGENDA; COMMENCEMENT NEWS Staff (2); Inter Literary Society Debate (2); Classical Course.

"Timmy," The Friend of the Freshman," chief instructor in the ways of evil, has acquired a reputation for spinning the "spinner," guzzling soda, and of being the "chimney" of the class. His inordinate affection for Freshmen made him the subject of editorial comment on upperclassman conduct,—"We love him for the enemies he has made." Well-a-day, "Timmy," the likes of you we shall never see again.

HELEN ELIZABETH RICKABAUGH, - Altoona

Prepared at Altoona High School; Freshman Declamation Contest; Latin Philosophical Course; Teaching.

Ach! etwas schones! It hailed from the coal-regions of Altoona and is surely a rare production. Her line of work is German (for proof consult those on her hall). She speaks it all day and dreams and snores it all night. After finishing school, she expects to become an assistant to Prof. Weithaase in the chair of German.

FREDERICK AMOS RIEGEL, - - Lehighton
Kappa Sigma

Prepared at Bethlehem Preparatory School; Physical and Chemical Society; L'AGENDA Board, Junior Promenade Committee; Chemistry Course; Chemist.

"Fritz",—the Star of Bethlehem (prep), the bad man from State, the giant of Bucknell, and the leader of the Freshmen class (so the Sophs declare him) struts within our confines, proud of Fritz and his famous nationality. He is a very tall young man of aged habits, and well known for his gallantry and a few other pranks.

EDWIN WARREN RUMSEY, - - - Lewisburg

Prepared at Wellsboro High School and Bucknell Academy; Euepia Literary Society; Declamation Contest (1, 2); Classical Course; Ministry.

This advertisement of Mellen's Food and Horlick's Malted Milk may be seen ambulating about our classic halls, conspicuous for his oilcloth book-bag and rubber-boots. He says he is very fond of his Mamma', and especially of his Papa', as Papa' carries his coal for him and shines his shoes. In head, this picture indicates him a veritable Colossus: For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall much be required.

SILAS HOWARD SCHOCH, -
Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Delta Sigma

Selins Grove

Entered as Junior from Lafayette College; Theta Alpha Literary Society; ORANGE AND BLUE Staff; Junior Promenade Committee; Jurisprudence Course.

Silas just popped up this year; though a late arrival, he is no less renowned. He came from Lafayette. It, probably, is needless to relate that he came from Lafayette, for it is quite well known that he came from Lafayette. He took his freshman and sophomore years at Lafayette, and left Lafayette in his junior year to enter Bucknell after having spent two years at Lafayette.

PENROSE HERR SHELLEY, - - Port Royal

Prepared at Port Royal High School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Classical Course; Medicine.

In handling this young gentleman we would carefully don our kid gloves, of such fine sensibilities is he possessed. Shelley is very much satisfied with himself and his own company. He is most choice in his circle of associates: Shelley, Mr. Shelley, Penrose Shelley, and Penrose Herr Shelley compose a very satisfactory group.

HORACE JONES SHEPPARD, - Cedarville, N. J.

Prepared at South Jersey Institute; Theta Alpha Literary Society, Secretary (2); Demosthenian Oratorical Club; Manager, MIRROR (2,3); L'AGENDA Board; President, Athletic Association (3); Classical Course; Teaching

This is "Shep," the business end of 1906. He denies that there is a single drop of Hebrew blood in his make-up but—watch him nail the unsuspecting Freshy for his subscription to the MIRROR. There are but few Gentiles such as Shep. He is equally famed for his luminous translation of what he terms "Plato's Fido" (Phaedo).

JAMES LEIGH SHIELDS, - - - Lewisburg
Alpha Tau Delta

Prepared at Lewisburg High School; Euepia Literary Society; Physical and Chemical Society; L'AGENDA Board; Classsical Course; Science.

"Dearie," as some of the ladies call him, has developed a bad case of too much sister. Two things doth delight his heart: petticoats and his little blue sweater. Petticoats, that he may carry books; sweater, that he may appear like "Chimmie Fadden." Wine and women hath spoiled many a good youth before him; women hath already done their work.

JOHN DANIEL PECK SMITHGALL, - - - Farragut
Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Phi Delta Sigma; Theta Delta Tau, Alpha Kappa Alpha

Prepared at Farragut High School; Euepia Literary Society; Dramatic Club (2); Bucknell Minstrels; Toast, Class Banquet (1); Class Track Team (1); Class Football Team (2); Scientific Couse; Medicine.

Ah! Behold the striking countenance of Bucknell's most famous bluffer, J. D. Peck Smithgall. His cognomen is by no means a "misnomer." His exploded psychological theories put Mr. Stout on the rack and enshroud Prex in a cloud of mystic awe. Suave in manner, artistic in speech, and gentle in salutation, surely the god of prosperity will graciously smile on this.

DICKSON SHAW STAUFFER, - - - Mt. Pleasant
Phi Gamma Delta, Theta Delta Tau

Prepared at Mt. Pleasant High School; Toast at Banquet (2); Latin Philosophical Course; Chemist.

Architecturally Dick resembles the new library. He is a quiet youth of a calm and well ordered life, very neat in personal appearance and in the manner in which his room is kept. The calm and even tenor of his ways is seldom disturbed by any untoward incident, and for three years he has placidly drifted with the slow stream of college life.

HARRY THOMAS STEVENSON, - - Sharon
Phi Kappa Psi, Theta Delta Tau

Prepared at Sharon High School; Euepia Literary Society; Manager, Class Track Team (1); Assistant Baseball Manager, Varsity (3); L'AGENDA Board; General Science Course; Business.

This is Bucknell's hardest worker, always busy, even when doing nothing. He is one of the compilers of this volume which bears out the statement that he is a hard worker. Throughout this book may be seen brilliant dashes from his ingenious pen, indicative of masterly style and polished diction. The article on his "side-lines" is his best production—look above.

FRANK LATON STEWART, - - Apollo

Prepared at Mt. Pleasant Institute; Euepia Literary Society; Demosthenian Oratorical Club; Classical Course; Ministry.

Frank has learned the virtue of quietude whether he be on the street or in the class room. His "shot out of the mist" aspect is due to his nothing-to-say habitude of mind. But when he opens his divinum os, deep and ominous sounds his prophetic basso profundo.

ARDIS CLAIR THOMPSON, - - Franklin
Phi Kappa Psi, Alpha Kappa Alpha

Prepared at Franklin High School; Vice-President, Athletic Association(3); Latin Philosophical Course; Medicine.

"Doc" Thompson is a nice little boy of eighteen years of age. He stands well over six feet and has a pectoral measurement of some forty-four inches. He is quite popular with the girls, and is said to be able to reduce the most difficult of them to absolute submission by merely sitting across the room and making chests.

SARAH ELLA UNGER, - - - Danville

Prepared at Danville High School; Latin Philosophical Course; Teaching.

Sarah Ella, or Sadie, as she is more familiarly called, was born in Danville in 1880. She is a very bright and ambitious maid and has wonderful propensities in the musical line. She is a star mandolin player, and, in voice, she compares favorably with Nordica and Schumann-Heinck. She is a conscientious student and expects to graduate with a Ph. B. attached to her name and will then go on the stage.

ABRAM PIERCE WALTZ, - - - Elmsport

Prepared at Bucknell Academy; Euepia Literary Society; Manager Class Football Team (1); Class Basketball Team (1, 2), Classical Course; Ministry.

One of the most serious problems facing the Trustees of the University is that of supplying a chapel choir for the classes following the footsteps of '06. At present Waltz is the whole cheese. How could we do without him? Have you ever heard him make the night hideous with "One Sweetly Solemn Thought"? The thought was O. K. but that voice! Suffice it to say that the voice needed the saccharine qualities of the song.

COURTNEY A. WHEELER, - - - Titusville

Prepared at Titusville High School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Physical and Chemical Society; T Square Club; Varsity Football Team (3); Class Football Team (1, 2), Captain (2); Engineering Course; Civil Engineer.

The only representative of 1906 on the Varsity football team deserves special attention at the hands of the scribe. Courtney's success on the gridiron is due not so much to his personal prowess as to the color of his hair. When the halfback came Courtney's way that head of hair aided by a large scab on his nose acted as a danger signal which stopped the runner every time. "Ray for Courtney."

ATHOL WISE, - - - - - New Millport
Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Prepared at Lock Haven Normal School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Manager, L'AGENDA; Junior Promenade Committee; Special Course; Business.

The modern Von Twiller with the original believes in the theory that there are two ways of making a mark in the world: one, by saying nothing at all; the other by thinking less. In shaping his shapeless shape Mother Goose took to the woods with Wise a close second,—“Tis Folly to be Wise.”

CHESTER LYLE WYNNE, - - - - - Elverson
Phi Gamma Delta

Prepared at Coatesville High School; Euepia Literary Society; Latin Philosophical Course; Law.

“Indispensable Adjunct to a Cigarette.”

Chester argues that if tobacco is a bad thing it should be burned up, so he does what he can which is not inconsiderable. As a proof that nicotine aids mental work Chester has on several occasions triumphantly pointed out in his book the lesson for the day. This exception proves the rule. He is also a member of the ancient and honorable society of G. O. A. T. S.

CARL SHULTZ YINGLING, - - - - - Jersey City, N. J.

Prepared at Jersey City High School; Theta Alpha Literary Society; Physical and Chemical Society; T Square Club; Civil Engineering Course; Civil Engineer.

“Ping” has faint recollections of being born in China in the rainy season. This probably accounts for his rainy weather appearance. He tries to be tidy, but his make-up is against him. Ping is eccentric, lenient in judging himself, always trying to do the ministerials a kindness by plucking the mote from their eyes.

FRANK LANDIS YOST, - - Lock Haven
Theta Delta Upsilon

Prepared at Lock Haven High School and Central State Normal School; Euepia Literary Society; Physical and Chemical Society; Class Poet (1, 3); Toast Class Banquet (1); Junior Promenade Committee; Classical Course; Medicine.

"Poeta nascitur no fit." This wise saw well fits our youthful friend. Few there are indeed who are permitted to breathe the pure upper air of Mt. Parnasus. Frank's Pegasus has served him a double purpose. But then that was way back in Freshmen days. Just now, we fear, he is too much given to gazing upon the spring of Narcissus.

MARY ELIZABETH YOUNG, - - Lewisburg

Prepared at Bucknell Institute; Philosophical Course; Teaching.

This delicate little maiden of sixteen (about) cast her lot with 1906 as a Junior. Miss Young is one of those pleasant creatures whom you like to know but who will not be known. Much cannot be said about her because we are not well acquainted; but thus far she wears well.

SOPHOMORE CLASS POEM

Now you'll have a thrilling story
Of the glorious Soph'more Class ;
Soph'mores of our grand old Vars'ty,
Many a lad and many a lass.
If you could but know their hist'ry,
They would rank before the rest ;
Quality is what they boast of,
Quantity is never best.
Talk not of the worthy Senior,
Speak not of the Freshmen green,
Even mention not the Junior
Till you have these Soph'mores seen.
Fortune's sure to smile upon them,
Give them hope for future aims,
And you'll hear about these Soph'mores,
Of their noble deeds and gains.
Many names of highest merit
Will be handed down to fame,
Bringing naught but praise and honor
To the college whence they came.
Vaunting pride is not their failing ;
Though of talent they've no dearth,
You will never find them boasting,
They seek only modest worth.
When their college days are over,
All their student work done well,
You will find their hearts are loyal
And still true to old Bucknell.
Never to the end of ages,
Will their loyalty be riven.
Here's to you, oh "Sophs" so hopeful !
Here's to you, Fair Nineteen Seven !

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

THE deeds of the class of 1907 are such as deserve to be recorded in the history of the college. We need not say this merely on our own authority, but all the classes of the college, including even the class of 1906, will unite with us in proclaiming our glorious works.

Our history, as a class, began on September 18, 1903, when for the first time we attended chapel. Even at that early date in our history we made a grand appearance, for many upper-classmen remarked that we did not appear as green as our unworthy predecessors of 1906, and many predictions were made that 1906 would have to pay dearly for all she might gain. These predictions were partly proved on the following morning when we met the Sophomores in battle and, although greatly outnumbered, fought them bravely until interrupted by the faculty, at whose timely appearance the Sophomores were much pleased. After this the Sophomores, who had no cause for rejoicing, sought to terrify us by their posters but these, as all will acknowledge, were a complete failure, owing to our prompt action in taking them down and because of the posters themselves, which were only a copy of the rules laid down by upper-classmen. They even demonstrated their first failure in attempting to put up other posters which met with no greater success than the first. If we follow the sequence of events the hall scrap was the next occurrence in our history. After disregarding for some time the pranks of the Sophomores we finally decided to put an end to the trouble and as a result gained our object.

In the football game with '06 we met our first defeat; however, it was a defeat in which there was no disgrace, for our brave warriors struggled manfully against their opponents and held them down to six points. Although we lost the football game we more than balanced our account with '06 when we posted our proclamations. This production was regarded by all as far superior to the posters of '06 and in spite of the Sophomores' declaration, that it would be impossible for us to put up our posters, we succeeded in having them up long enough to be read by the town folk and enjoyed by all upper-classmen.

Our next success was our banquet at Williamsport. It was conceded by members of the faculty and upper-classmen that our banquet was the most successful one held in years.

In our long list of victories we must not overlook our victory in basketball, but if you wish to know the score ask the Juniors. Our opponents did not fully recover from the effects of this defeat until late in the spring term, when they appeared on the baseball diamond confident of success. But alas for them, their hopes were soon shattered, and they met with defeat. Following this victory we all successfully passed our final examinations and thus entered upon a new era as Sophomores with all their trials and tribulations.

When we first looked upon '08 in the chapel we concluded that we had seen but one greener class during our earthly existence, and although only thirty of our men had yet returned we determined that it was our duty to rub off a little of the greenness from this verdant map, and accordingly proceeded to the operation. Then a rush took place between thirty Sophomores and a hundred Freshmen. We fought for more than an hour, when—in such a defeat there is no disgrace.

As a first step toward developing this bunch of uncouth individuals we issued proclamations setting forth commandments in obedience to which they might follow in the straight and narrow way. They were ambitious enough to attempt to tear these proclamations down. These offenders, however, were caught and after giving several vaudeville performances under our management soon realized the folly of their disobedience.

Now, lest we burden the reader's mind with too many of our victories, we will pass on to the annual football game. The coming of this event aroused great spirit on both sides. The Freshmen selected the best men from their class, and considering the material from which they were taken they made a fair appearance. But in the heart of every Sophomore there was perfect confidence as to the outcome of this struggle. From the very outset our little boys played those big fellows with true 1907 spirit and succeeded in making the first touchdown in three minutes. At no time during the game was there any doubt as to our victory. In a short time another touchdown was made and the Freshmen, in spite of their determined resistance and the encouragement they received from the side lines, were unable to score. Thus ended one of the great events of the year much to our satisfaction. The Freshmen, however, were so grieved over their defeat that they tolled the college bell and raised their flag at half mast.

Many other incidents in our history might be enumerated but time and space prevent us from dwelling longer upon our victories or our defeats. Such is our history, a history of which we are justly proud.

BUCKNELL

FRESHMAN CLASS POEM

Delightful task that now I take,
To sound the praise of 1908,
The brightest class of Bucknell true,
That any college ever knew.

Our youth is bright; young is our fame,
Honored, noble, and just our name,
'Tis mighty thus, let it not rust,
Nor e'er be trampled in the dust.

Sister Prudence, Brother Knowledge,
Wilt thou guide us safe through College?
Enlight the pages of the wise
And let our praises reach the skies.

When we step out into the world,
And on the flood of life are hurled,
We fling ourselves, pleading to thee,
For guidance over life's stormy sea.

To trust our might without the aid
Of some higher being we're 'fraid :
So humble, lowly, chaste, and meek,
We cast ourselves at Wisdom's feet.

O Wisdom, at thy feet we bow!
Grant us a mother's blessing now,
Guide us over pathways e'er made bright,
By thine own peaceful, holy light.

O Wisdom, lend us thy strong hand,
Be leader of our little band,
Lead us to vict'ry by thy might,
And ever keep us in the right!

Classmates accept a mother's care,
In reverence your brows make bare,
Receive the blessings Wisdom gives,
Endeavor for Her care to live.

But as classmates we older grow,
And storms of life shall fiercer blow,
The armor of our learning take,
Defend the Right for Wisdom's sake.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

ON THE morning of September 23, 1904, all Lewisburg was in a turmoil, for the class of '08 was to arrive that day. "For fifty-five years Bucknell had awaited the advent of an ideal Freshman Class," and since many rumors of our strength and prowess had been circulated, she dared hope much.

During all the long journey from home upper-classmen had been telling us of awful deeds committed upon the body of unsuspecting Freshmen, of the horrors of the class scrap, and of the terrible (?) Sophomores. Consequently when we arrived in Lewisburg we were much alarmed, and our hearts quailed as we viewed for the first time the imposing structures on the "Hill" which were to be the scenes of our few defeats and many victories.

However, we soon lost our shyness and grasped the situation with a master hand. That very afternoon we held our first class meeting, in spite of the efforts of the Sophomores to break it up. Strange to say, although this was the only meeting which the Sophomores attempted to prevent, it was the only one at which every Freshman was present.

It was at this meeting that we first saw our true strength. It was there that we chose our leaders and prepared for the "scrap"—prepared so well that after the first rush it wasn't even interesting. Out of regard for our friends, the enemy, we will not dwell at length on how we fought the Sophs back to West College, how we captured their president and how the battle was stopped by the upper-classmen to save the few remaining. Suffice it to say that the scrap was the tamest and our victory the most decided ever seen here.

Then came the posting of the proclamations. We had been informed that it was the custom to allow the Sophomores to post their "proc's" first, so we waited until our patience was exhausted. But in vain. The Sophs did not seem inclined to take the initiative, so on a dark and stormy night we sallied forth, and soon had the town ablaze with posters setting forth in no uncertain terms our adversaries in their true light.

Again there was quiet for several days, when suddenly, in the dead of night, the cry "Freshmen out!" resounded through the halls. Hastily donning our clothing, we turned out to find that the Sophs had at last raised sufficient nerve to post a feeble attempt at a proclamation. We immediately fell to work and by daylight not a "proc" was intact.

In chronological order the next important event was the inter-class football game. Great were the preparations and on the day of the game a large expectant crowd thronged the campus, eager to see the contest. Out of respect for our own feelings we will not dwell at length on this game, suffice it to say that although defeated by superior strength and ability, we were not beaten, as was manifested by the class spirit shown after the game.

Lastly comes the crowning event of our school year, our Freshman banquet which was held at Wilkesbarre on the evening of January 9th, 1905.

After considerable excitement in rescuing our banquet committee chairman, which was only accomplished after we had captured the Sophomore's president and several of their toasters, we departed almost unhindered. This was without question the most successful banquet ever held by any class. Ninety-one persons sat down to the bountiful repast served in a magnificent banquet hall.

When we returned to Lewisburg we learned that the Sophomores had departed for Williamsport during our absence—they had "folded their tents like the Arabs and as silently stolen away."

This is the record of our most acute fits of insanity. As we grow older in college life they will doubtless become more and more infrequent, until at last, with one grand final spasm, we shall roll out from Old Bucknell into the arms of an astonished and delighted world. Hail 1908!

CLASS POEM

There's only one class at old Bucknell
That's worthy of mention at all;
It is one that you'll always find holding,
A "full-house" from Winter to Fall.

We're the Specials—we've got them all going,
There's nothing can touch us that's here,
We've broken all records as students,
We're breaking them year after year.

When we entered the college as Freshmen,
The fires of ambition gleamed bright,
We hitched to the stars all our wagons,
And saw that the hitchings were tight.

And our wagons, now gleaming so brightly,
Outshone all the stars in the sky;
But the stars, growing jealous, revolted,
And we lost our position on high.

Thus we fell—and we've stopped by the wayside,
All the fires of ambition are spent,
And if you should inquire for our standing—
We're engaged upon some "special" bent.

So here's to the "Class of the Fallen,"
And here's to our flower—the Queen—
"Pillsbury's Best"—at the grocers',
And here's to the Yellow and Green.

SPECIAL CLASS HISTORY.

IN accordance with the historical point of view as held by the usual class scribe, we are the greatest class in college. Composed of Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmen, and here and there a Prep, truly we can exclaim, and with due reverence to the time-honored motto: "E Pluribus Unum!"

The inception of our class is rather legendary in its setting and mystic in its beginning. When our college assumed the functions as well as the name of a University, it was then that we came, and came to stay. For the new role we are truly most thankful; for, if things were as they used to be, now things would be different.

As conditions are our class serves a good and benevolent purpose—a sort of city of refuge.

First and foremost in our mind is scholastic attainment. Certain it is, we have no equal in college. Our atmosphere of "sophia" is most inspiring. Many there are who have fallen into our class unschooled in the way of study, and, after some years, spurred on by our intellectual impetus, have left our class the better for it.

Athletically we are very, very strong. In fact our class has been called, and rightly, too, the incubator of athletes. We always furnish our quota for the gridiron, the cinder path with unusual speed, and likewise make ourselves indispensable to the diamond and the gym.

Social stunts are our long suit. From fall to spring we run a "full-house" on the hill, and no less prominently do we figure in the town functions. There is no doubt that many of the nice little affairs of a social nature are graced by our most august presence.

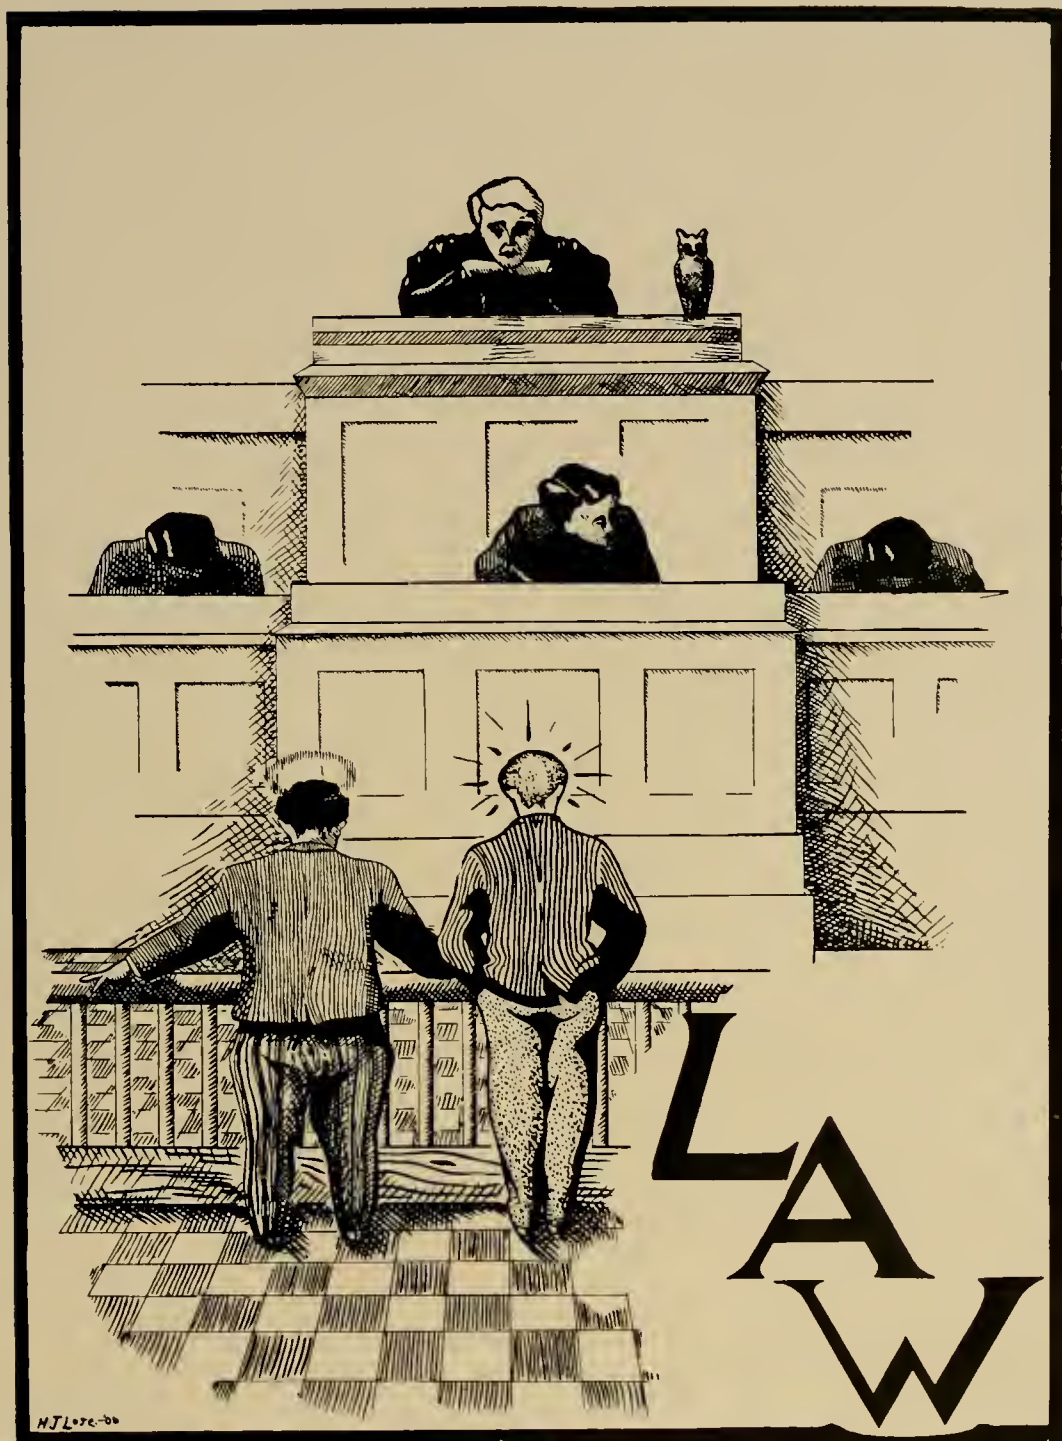

There is one good thing about our class which should be mentioned, namely, our adaptability. We can and have adapted ourselves to most any condition and activity of school life.

We have not specifically recounted our deeds, so numerous are they; but in a general way we have hinted at what is quite established—we are a great and prosperous class.

BENJAMIN F. THOMAS

Professor Benjamin F. Thomas, the new head of Bucknell Academy, was graduated from Keystone Academy in the spring of 1894, and in the fall of the same year entered Bucknell University. He received from his Alma Mater in 1898 the degree of A. B., and in 1902 that of A. M.

After graduation he returned to his old school as instructor, where he remained four years. At the end of this time he transferred the seat of his labors to Peddie Institute, from which institution he was called to his present position.

Under his able leadership the Academy is rapidly progressing and bids fair in the future to hold an even larger place in the life of the University than it has in the past.

THOMAS ALPHEUS EDWARDS

Dean Thomas Alpheus Edwards was born the son of a farmer, in Oneida county, state of New York. His paternal ancestors were Welsh from the north of Wales; his maternal, from the south of Wales were also Welsh but mixed on one side with Scotch, on the other with English.

His preparatory education was received in the public schools and academies of his native state. In connection with one of those academies he did his first teaching.

Early attracted to the study of the law, he directed his studies to that end, until, after his conversion, the claims of another calling and service were urged upon his consideration with such force that he resolved to enter what appealed to him as the higher service.

His first regular pastorate was with the Baptist Church of Groton, New York, from 1877 to 1881. In 1881, he removed to Union City, Pa., as pastor of the Baptist Church, shortly afterward resigning to accept the office of Supervising Principal of the public schools of that borough, an office he retained nearly ten years, resigning in 1890, to accept the principalship of Hall Institute, Sharon, Pa.

The college year 1893-4 he spent in study in the University of Chicago. In June, 1894, he was elected Principal of Bucknell Academy. In June, 1905, he was elected to the position he now holds in connection with Bucknell University, Dean of the Department for Women, and Professor of Pedagogy.

While in Union City Mr. Edwards entered anew upon his college course, for some years interrupted, and was graduated A. B. in 1885, receiving the degree of A. M. three years thereafter.

REVIEW OF BASEBALL SEASON

P. G. SMITH, '05

THE baseball season of 1904 was not without reverses, but on the whole it was one that reflected credit upon the University. For the first time the athletic association was financially able to obtain the services of a professional coach. Peter Agnew, of the Harrisburg Tri-State team, was secured to do the coaching, and under his careful training the team rapidly developed.

Considering the schedule and the nucleus on hand, the prospects never looked brighter. Nearly every team on the schedule was an old rival of Bucknell, and anxious to wipe out numerous defeats at the hands of our 'Varsity. However, the spring practice was greatly interfered with on account of the inclemency of the weather, and the first game found the team in poor form.

The first game of the season was played at Annapolis and resulted in a victory for the "Middies." The next game was with Dickinson College at Carlisle. On account of the bad weather only five innings were played, the game ending in a tie. The season at home was opened with more success than accorded the team in its game abroad. Bucknell easily defeated Lehigh University 8 to 4. Then followed a series of defeats which caused Bucknell's standard to drop considerably. Villa Vova, Fordham, Dickinson, Cuban Giants, Bloomsburg, Harrisburg (two games), Williamsport, and Princeton all took turns in defeating the 'Varsity. Such misfortune might dishearten any team, since all the games were lost by close scores, but men who represented the Orange and Blue showed that they were possessed of a "never say die" spirit, and by a grand rally won the remaining games of the season played with Williamsport Tri-State, Carlisle Indians (two games), Lebanon Valley, and Bloomsburg on Bucknell field.

Financially the season was not a success, the association lost money on account of large guarantees to visiting teams and small gate receipts to meet the demand.

REVIEW OF TRACK SEASON

R. F. SHEPPARD, '05

WHEN the call for candidates for the relay team was issued last spring, the outlook for a winning team was very dull. Two of the previous season's winning quartet, Tiffany, '03, and Griffith, '05, were missing and the Freshman class showed no experienced material. But Gaskill, '06, the substitute of the season before, showed improved form, and Thatcher, '06, who the season before suffered a sprained ankle before he had an opportunity to show what he could do, also ran in good time. These two men with Marsh, '05, and Pearse, '05, who for two years had been the mainstays of the team, were picked to represent Bucknell. When the time arrived for the race, they showed that Coach Hoskins' careful and efficient training had not been in vain. Not only did they win the race, but also lowered by two and one-half seconds, the time made by the winning team of the previous season.

The Dickinson meet held on May 19th showed that our track team had suffered heavily in the loss of Glaspey and Griffith in the hurdles, Tiffany in the dashes, and Flood in the distance races. New material, however, was developed to take their places and the team made a very creditable showing by not suffering defeat. Dickinson by winning nearly all the points in the hurdle races and high jump, succeeded in making the meet a tie. Score, 52-52.

The Indian meet on June 4th found Capt. Pearse in a crippled condition; nevertheless he won a game race in the 100 yards from Mt. Pleasant, the Indians' crack sprinter. After this event, however, his injury forced him to retire. Marsh surprised the Indians by beating Mt. Pleasant in the 440 and again winning in the half mile from Snow and Black Star. Lenhart again won both the hammer throw and the shot put; and in the latter event came within a few inches of the Bucknell record. In this meet again was the loss of our hurdlers sorely felt and the Indians took our scalp by the score of 62-42.

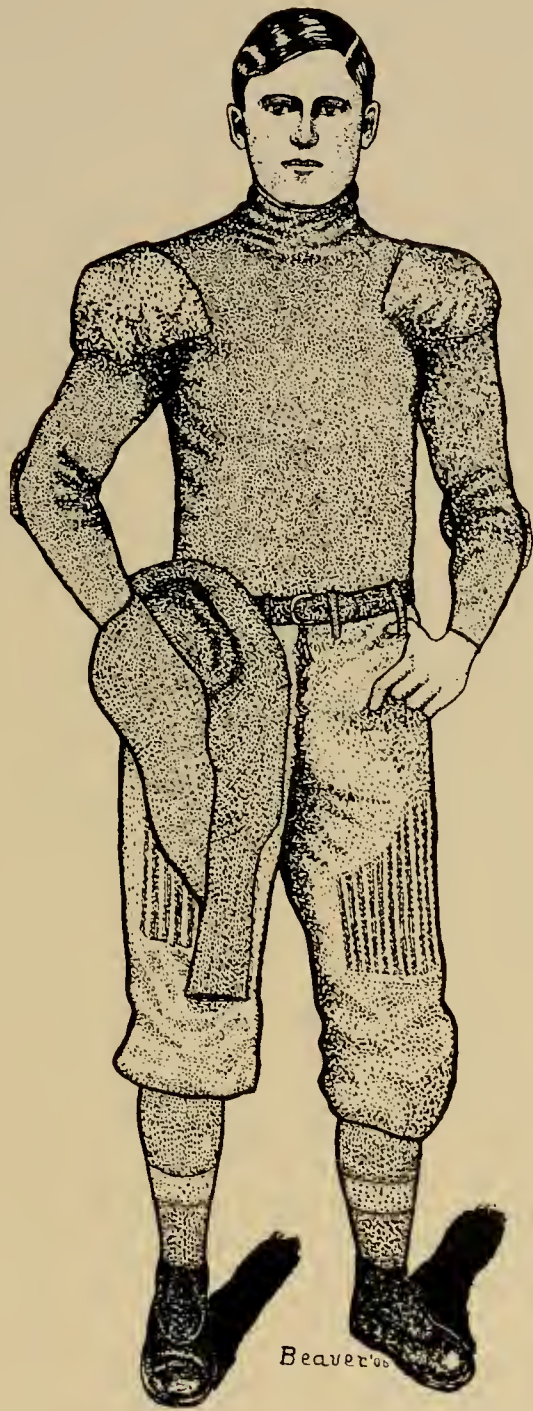

An event which should not be overlooked in a review of last season's accomplishments was our obtaining membership in the I. C. A. A. A. and sending representatives to its annual games. Our representatives took no first places, yet a start has been made.

This winter's indoor work has shown that the Freshman class contains much good track material, and when the call for the candidates for the relay team is issued, may we see not four or five but many aspirants for the honor of representing Bucknell in what has become one of the most prominent athletic events of the year.

The classifications for the U. of P. 1905 relay races, show that W. and J., and Johns Hopkins have been placed in another class; and we meet for the first time in several years Lehigh, Lafayette and U. of N. Carolina. Besides these we meet in this event our old rivals, Carlisle Indians, State, U. of Virginia, and Dickinson College. Several of these colleges, we meet in no other branch of athletics; and we should put forth every effort to add another to our long string of victories.

REVIEW OF FOOTBALL SEASON

C. D. COOPER, '05, CAPTAIN-ELECT

THE Football season of 1904 was in no way a success. The schedule was very poor, owing to the fact that the Colgate and Swathmore games were cancelled, and the management was unable to fill the dates with other teams. The team in some respects was not up to the usual standard. New men had to be broken in for the majority of the positions, and while they made a creditable showing they lacked the experience of the older men.

Six regular games were played. Three were won and three lost. The opening games with Lebanon Valley and Villa Nova resulted in easy victories for the Orange and Blue. The outlook then began to brighten for a victory over the Indians. The team improved daily, but when they lined up against the "Red Skins" the Varsity was overconfident of victory. The Indians started with a rush and scored two touch-downs in the first half. After that it was too late to overcome the lead, and a goal from the field netted Bucknell's only tally. The next game with Cornell, at Ithaca, was a brilliant contest. Had the team played in the fore part of the game as it did in the remainder of the contest, victory would have been assured. Cornell scored two touch-downs in the first five minutes of play. After that both teams played evenly, each scoring two touch-downs. Maryland Athletic Club, composed entirely of college players, was next on the schedule. This game resulted in a well earned victory for the Varsity, the final score being 5 to 0. The last game of the season was with Georgetown University, at Georgetown, and was the most fiercely played contest of the year. It was the first meeting of the two colleges on the gridiron and both were eager for a victory. Georgetown, by superior skill and team work, carried off the honors.

After this game the team broke training, as the remaining games of the schedule had been cancelled.

REVIEW OF BASKETBALL SEASON

G. W. COCKILL, '05, CAPTAIN

THE Basketball season of 1905 was a successful one. In all, nine games were played, of which the Orange and Blue succeeded in winning eight. When we consider the fact that this year's schedule was one of the hardest ever arranged by Bucknell, we certainly can look upon this record with no little degree of pride. It was unfortunate for Bucknell that she was unable to have her entire Varsity five in the game she lost, for if such had been the case, it is reasonable to think that she would have passed through the season without a defeat to mar her proud record.

At the opening of the Winter Term things looked a little gloomy for a successful team. Of last year's five, three were in college; this necessitated the development of two new men to fill these places. The task before Coach Hoskins was no easy one, but as on other occasions, Hoskins proved his ability to develop a team that would be a credit to the University. The two vacant places were hotly contested for, especially that of right guard, which place went to Taggart, and whose choice was justified by the excellent article of ball he played. Grier made the other position and played a fine game all season.

The three opening games were easy victories for the Orange and Blue and not until the Williamsport game was the team given a chance to show its real ability. In this game, which was played on our floor, the Orange and Blue succeeded in defeating Williamsport by a larger score than any of its predecessors. Dartmouth came next and after a hard struggle Bucknell won. Gettysburg and Lebanon Valley were met on their floors. Bucknell succeeded in defeating Gettysburg in a close contest, but lost the next evening at Lebanon Valley. Smith, the star forward, was unable to accompany the team on this trip and his loss was keenly felt. Gettysburg played a return game here which Bucknell won in easy fashion. This game was the last game played at home, and but one more game remained to be played, that game was with Williamsport Y. M. C. A. at Williamsport, Bucknell's old rivals in Basketball. This game proved to be the hardest of the season, but Bucknell again succeeded in accomplishing what no other visiting team had accomplished at Williamsport, namely, defeating the Y. M. C. A. on their own floor. This was the last game on the schedule.

DUPED AGAIN

IT WAS about seven o'clock on a cool and rainy evening late in September when a certain Junior arrived back to school. The elements assisted by the sombre thoughts usually incident to leaving home gave a dark and gloomy aspect to the seemingly cruel world. The shades of night now held sway, and as the dejected Junior journeyed up college hill, a feeling of consternation tempered with a somewhat humorous cast stealthfully glided over him; for, contrary to expectation, those much advertised "Edison-thirty-candle-powers" were not in evidence. In fact the West side of W. C. gave forth no beckoning light whatever.

Amid such bewildering circumstances the awe-stricken Junior mused: "What's to be done? Lick the Registrar? No. I'll go up the hill, and probably I'll find some poor unfortunate youth, an associate in this somewhat hornless dilemma. If he is an old student and has a lamp, I'll ask him to come up to 76, fourth floor, until I get my bed arranged and pajamas on; but, if he is a Freshman, well, we'll determine that later."

With such exultant hope, the tired, home-sick, digusted pilgrim journeyed on until he found himself on the second floor in West College. As he turned to ascend the third flight of steps, he perceived a faint light beaming through an unblinded transom. Ah! "Hope springs triumphant!" Dropping two hands' full of suit-case, umbrella, and other indispensable adjuncts to a traveler's outfit, the groping student makes a mad rush, siezes the knob, opens the door, and with the ceremony and courtesy usually extended to a beginner at college, the unexpected guest makes himself known. The Junior, now somewhat more satisfied with himself and the situation, explained to the occupant that his presence in company with his lamp, which by the way was about three feet high, were desired up on fourth floor in 76.

The occupant somewhat startled, immediately put on his collar and cuffs, donned his coat, and with the superlative of genteel obeisance, took his lamp in his left hand, and with his right opened the door—this he did with all the gusto and suavity of a polished lackey. Acting upon his friend's pretty initiative, the Junior, snorting under his suppressed grin, led the way followed by his most courteous new friend.

Arriving at the foot of the third flight they stopped. Again the Junior filled his hands full of suit-case, whereupon he offered his companion the privilege of helping himself to the umbrella and the rest of the luggage. They ascended, flight after flight, until at last, with the Junior as guide, they arrive at 76.

Fortunately they found the door open; the light-bearer took the lead; both entered the room, and they both dropped their respective burdens. However, the frightened stranger held fast to his lamp, while he stood in the right-hand corner of the room with a rather statuesque appearance looking helplessly on.

To the Junior's surprise he found that the baggageman had delivered his trunk. "You can stay until I unpack my trunk," ventured the Junior with a concealed chuckling laugh playing up and down his wind pipe. "At your pleasure," in a delightfully resonant voice with a charmingly pretty New England accent, replied the stranger.

Immediately the trunk was unpacked, the clothes orderly placed in the oak wardrobe, clean white linen put upon the bed, and everything pleasantly arranged for a good night's sleep and a much needed rest.

At this point the Junior clad in a clean suit of pink pajamas, sat on the edge of the open trunk—the trunk, by the way, approached the size of a freight car. With the bewildered stranger still holding down the corner in a soldierly manner, tenaciously holding on to his tottering lamp, and the Junior in the above mentioned attitude, the following conversation ensued:

"Stranger, of course this is your first year at college, and the standing you acquire will depend much upon the first impression you make. Speaking from experience, I would enjoin you to put your hardest possible work in the first month; for thus, and thus only, will you maintain a creditable standing with the powers that be. Then too, you want to put your best clothes to the front; for there is no use dodging the fact, clothes goes a great way in this place. You know, according to Mark Twain, clothes make a Czar."

To these remarks the stranger's head and lamp seemed to nod assent in unison.

The Junior getting deeply in earnest continues:

"Above all, tend strictly to your own business, and all this talk about hazing, concerning which no doubt you have heard, will be a past day-dream in your experience.

Hereupon the stranger grew intensely earnest; and with a beautifully mellow "I hope so," reinforced by a more pronounced nodding of the head, and a frightening sway of the lamp, the Junior is urged to continue.

"Above all, friend, they are certainly strong after scalps in this place, especially long ones such as yours. (The stranger cast a look of astonished surprise.) Now, if I were in your place, I would have my hair cut, and that just as soon as possible."

Rather reluctantly the stranger nods assent.

The Junior, putting one foot upon the edge of the side of the trunk, while his guest wonderingly looks on, inquires:

"What course are you going to take?"

"Not any," was the reply with an awakening grin.

"Well, what in the d—— are you doing here, and who the h—— are you?" was the startled query.

"Why, I am William Cullen Keough, of Holyoke, Mass., A. B., Harvard University, 1904, and I am employed as an Instructor in Modern Languages by Bucknell University."

The Junior swooning away with an unutterable groan, fell into trunk jarring the lid closed.

Exit Prof. Keough.

A CONTRIBUTION FROM THE WASTEBASKET

LEWISBURG, PA., APRIL 15, 1905

MY DEAR MR. GRETZINGER:—

It gives me genuine pleasure to congratulate you upon the arrival of William, Jr. I can hear "Gretz has an heir to succeed him," ringing over the campus in gladsome tones and reverberating with mellow sweetness from venerable old Montour.

What undisguised joy, what hope for the future must fill every breast. The great "Wizard of Frenzied Finance" will some day be succeeded by one of his own flesh, doubtless as astute, cunning, and wary as his noble sire!

Long live William, Jr.! May he, like his illustrious father, be mighty in conflict, shrewd in counsel, and crafty in matters of finance. May he be first in war, first in peace, and first in the pocket-book of those who will visit his sanctum. May he possess, like his famous predecessor, that acute sense for the clink of silver, that keen eye for the gold that glitters, and that accurate scent for the long green. May he, too, fleece the freshmen, hoodwink the seniors, beguile the faculty, and ensnare the Rockefellerers, the Carnegies, and even the Chadwicks.

When foreign enemy or domestic foe shall strike at the ancient guarantees of freedom; when hostile armies shall invade our land, may the son, like his noble sire, take a sad farewell of his friends, wring their hands in silence, and bravely grasp the haversack and canteen to breast the militant storm. May he be artful in stratagem and valorous in action; may he be merciful to the conquered foe and humane to the forlorn captives; may he feed his comrades in arms on embalmed beef, and in the white heat of mortal combat may he always be found where the bullets are thickest,—in the ammunition wagon.

Yes, long live William, Jr.! May he, guided by the scintillating record of his distinguished lord, bring to a full completion the work so masterfully executed by him who sits at the receipt of custom at Old Bucknell.

Most sincerely yours,

BILL.

Being the Adventure of "Doc" and the "Kid"

It was dark, very dark, out there on the trackless waste of waters where Doc and the Kid sat in their canoe. The bridge was just above them but it cast no shadow, for the bridge, like its owners, throws nothing away. Over on the bank sat John Beisel, alias Royal Hen, alias The Fat Boy, alias The Oil King. He was not allowed in the boat, for being built like a watermelon, he occupied more space while sitting down than while standing up. So there he sat twiddling his thumbs and dipping his toes in the water to see if it was wet.

Out in the canoe there was an animated discussion about class attendance. Doc based his claims to an "Ex." on the fact that he had attended eighteen recitations out of forty-seven. The Kid modestly admitted sixteen but as he had slept through twelve of them he would be satisfied with a "Vg." Elated over his record Doc made one of his famous "chests," this the Kid tried to imitate and getting their "chests" on the same side of the canoe they promptly found themselves in the water clinging to the overturned boat. "Ow," howled the kid, "this water is wet." But Doc was so busy coughing up water that he could only moan. "What's the matter with you," demanded the Kid. "I'm disgraced, disgraced forever," wailed Doc, "I've swallowed some water." "O, dear," cried the Kid, "how shall we ever get out of this? What shall we do?" "Do," repeated Doc, "there is only one thing to do, that is to yell." "What shall we say?" inquired the Kid. "Why" answered Doc, "say 'Hel-p' as loud as you can." So across the water to the waiting Oil King came the damp and dismal "Hel-l-l-p, Hel-l-l-p." "What's the matter, fellows," he shouted back. "The canoe has tipped over," was the answer. "What shall I do?" asked the Fat boy. "Bail out the river so we can walk ashore," yelled Doc somewhat sarcastically.

Just then two men were launching a boat to go to the rescue. John Beisel ran puffing up to them and asked permission to go along. "No," said one of them gruffly, "you're too healthy." "Well, a fellow who hasn't seen his feet in six years ought to be healthy, hadn't he?" retorted the fat boy, but his logic was not convincing and the two men pushed off leaving the Oil King stranded, as usual.

Five minutes later two bedraggled specimens of the genus "lobster" were hauled over the side and deposited amidships. Not a word was uttered by the shipwrecked marines until the boat had been swept over the dam when Doc coolly asked: "Say, Mister, can you lend me the loan of a hand mirror and a comb? I'd like to look a little better when I make my debut on shore." Before the astonished boatman could answer, a dark object dimly appeared floating near the boat and the Kid cried out: "There's the canoe, Doc, grab it." Doc leaned far over the side and made a wild "swipe" at the drifting object. He succeeded—in grasping a handful of water—and the next moment three men were clinging to an overturned boat and another was triumphantly straddling the canoe.

A chorus of wild and frantic "Hel-l-l-ps" now rose from the quartette. But aid was slow in coming. "Great Cats," howled Doc, "if I ever get out of this I'll pay Baker's soda bill." "So will I," wailed the Kid feebly, "and I'll pay my class dues, too." "Yes," continued Doc, "I will attend class regularly, twice a week." "And I will go to chapel," moaned the Kid. Further good resolutions were cut short by the arrival of rescuers. Hope sprang in Doc who asked: "What is the fare to Lewisburg, one way, no return trip for me? Hey Kid?" But the Kid answered never a word, his usual eloquence was all soaked out of him.

When the waterlogged cargo was transferred, Doc was deposited in the bottom of the boat and the dripping would-be rescuer sat down on him as he wetly remarked: "I'll see that he grabs no more canoes." The shore was soon reached and all disembarked. Doc strode up the bank with the same old jaunty air, nor had the river been able to wash off that sickly smile. It is there yet. As the Kid was helped ashore, with a saturated voice he asked: "Is this terra firma?" "No" answered the unlucky boatman, as he turned his pockets wrong side out to empty them of water, "no, you blooming idiot, this is the Gas House."

Who stuffs much meat in a head petite?

“THE MIND OF MAN.”

Mighty is the mind of man,
Subtle and discerning,
Powerful and without doubt
Wonderful in learning.

But what mind of mortal can,
Altho' wise and knowing,
Take a plant and show to us
The power behind its growing?

Where is one who by his will,
Can a living creature
Make from out the sculptor's stone,
Tho' he be Art's teacher?

Is there of you any chemist,
Who from solids, gases,
Can a single living seed produce
Of one of Nature's classes?

Can a scientist's invention
Launch a universe in space,
Or supposing he could launch it,
Could his planets run the race?

Mighty is the mind of man,
Subtle and discerning,
But behind it all there's One
Who far surpasses learning.

O, CHANGING SCENES OF TIME!

WAS Christmas eve. I was walking down Chestnut street in that old city of brotherly love. The night was chilly, exceedingly so; the wayfarer had fled the bitter cold; the streets were deserted; in the towers the chimes of bells rang out doleful and sad. As their cruel tones grew faint and died away into the awful stillness of the night, I fell into a reflective mood. Gazing heavenward, as my custom is, I beheld the moon wading remorsefully through the scattered clouds. As I gazed at the panorama, a multitude of thoughts flooded my mind. I thought of the checkered past, of the foreboding present, and of the unwritten future. I thought of the weakness of man and of the omnipotence of the ruler of the mighty universe. I thought of the fall of man and of the promise, of his final victory over sin. I thought of my own failures and of my chances of future punishment. While thus reflecting, the words of Milton, which so often form a part of my public prayer, came to me:

What in me is dark, illumine;

What is low, raise and support.

A year has passed. 'Tis Christmas eve again. I am walking the streets of that dear old cit yonce again—but O, how the scene has changed! The night air seems inviting, the streets are thronged with merry folk; in the towers the bells ring out loud and clear, their heavenly echoes dying away into eternal bliss. Alas! surely thought I, as I gazed into the blue canopy of the star-lit sky, "The heavens declare the glory of God: and the firmament sheweth his handiwork." In response all earth seemed to say: "Alas! what meaneth all the glory?" While a myriad of angelic voices proclaimed aloud:

"Alas, cruel Cupid has cast his fiery dart!

'Twas strange! the aim, but sure its course;

It entered! Where? Alas, a maiden's heart!

'Twas strange! the aim, stranger still the course."

Whereunto in broken tones I, prompt, replied :

"Thanks! thanks! to thee fair Cupid, for all thy winning power,
I shaped the dart that thou from its source did send,
From a bosom of two score years, five and ten!
Into the heart of a maiden—in the spring of youth—a flower,
A maiden, who to a wondering world this answer gave:
'I'd sooner be an old man's darling than a young man's slave.' "

TO WHOM IT FITS

I've always been a-thinking
That my hats have been a-shrinking
But I now begin to b'lieve it isn't that,
For the fellows have been telling
It's my head that's been a-swelling,
And a fool I've been to blame it on my hat.

A CODE OF RULES FOR SEMITES AT THE GAMES

Miss Schillinger on a tabouret with Semites gathered around her :

OW, girls, we are about to start for the basketball game and as the most of you have never attended anything of the kind before, I feel that I must give you a few points before we go.

First. Follow the leader, Miss B., always and ever do just as she does.

Second. Proceed by the usual way to the gym.

Third. Go two by two, and see that space of exactly two feet is kept between each couple.

Fourth. Keep the line perfectly straight and do not break ranks.

Fifth. Upon entering the gym give your tickets to the man at the foot of the stairs instead of keeping them yourselves.

Sixth. When your escort meets you, at the head of the stairs, should you chance to have one, by all means do not talk to him or receive any courtesies from him. It is not in good form.

Seventh. Try to occupy a different bench from your escort if possible. If not, be sure to leave the conventional two feet between you when you are seated. If then you are unable to make the gentleman hear what you say, just shout at him or make deaf and dumb signs. By all means, do not get nearer to him than two feet. This is according to decorum.

Eighth. Be sure to hold your own coat, rubbers, umbrella, furs, gloves, muff and whatever else must be held, on your own lap, and do not burden the gentlemen with them.

Ninth. Be sure to look under the railing rather than over, while watching the game.

Tenth. Between halves address no questions to your escort, and answer all his questions by "yes" or "no." Limit your conversation to fifty words, as it is not polite to talk too much.

Eleventh. When the game is over, dismiss your company immediately without taking a step. If he is slow about going just push him under the railing or out the window or hit him with your umbrella. You know there is more than one stair-case in the gymnasium.

Twelfth. Put on your own coat and do not allow him to assist you. It looks much better to see a lady put on her own wraps while the gentleman keeps his seat with folded hands.

Thirteenth. All gather in the little alcove at the head of the stairs and wait while the others pass out.

Fourteenth. When everyone has passed down the stairs, let my little Semites form in line according to size.

Fifteenth. When the signal is given, start with the right foot and proceed down the stairs, remembering the space of two feet. Try to do this real well for you know all the college men stand at the foot of the stairs to see you march out. It brings back to their minds, sweet remembrances of the penitentiary.

Sixteenth. Proceed to the Sem. without breaking ranks, always remembering to follow the leader.

Now, girlies, we are ready to start. Try to remember these little rules of etiquette that I have given you, and at the end of the game I will give a prize to the little girl who remembers them the best.

THE GOAT

Sing a song of sixpence,
 A pocket full of fudge,
 Which a maid of four and twenty
 Gave to a youth to judge.
 When the fudge was eaten
 The boy began to cry;
 For 'twas cooked from the recipe
 That caused the goat to die.

OUTLINE OF SERMON

BY HOMER D. PEASE

Preached at Muncy, Pa., Feb. 26, 1905.

TEXT: Lev. 24:5. Thou shalt take fine flour, and bake twelve cakes thereof.

INTRODUCTION

- I. Brethren, the Lord has given us each and every one a sound body.

BRIEF PROPER

- II. The Lord demands us to take care of this body.

The laws of nature prove this.

- III. How are we to take care of this body?

(1) By plenty of exercise.

(2) By eating wholesome food.

A. Wholesome food may be spoiled in cooking, therefore:

(a) We should use chemically pure cooking utensils.

(b) Aluminum is the only metal chemically pure.

(c) Food will not stick to an aluminum vessel.

(d) Aluminum utensils will last a life time.

- IV. (Climax and conclusion.) If Moses had used aluminum pans in which to bake his twelve cakes of fine flour, he would doubtless be living today.

HOW THE OTHER HALF LIVES HALF THE TIME

HIS L'AGENDA has several aims, as the Editor-in-Chief proclaims on page

4. In like manner this article is written with a purpose, in fact a two-fold purpose: to instruct the ignorant, and to correct the misinformed. Surely these are laudable aims.

How the Other Half Lives Half the Time. Of course this means the co-eds. All our readers may not be willing to admit now that the girls constitute "the other half," but some day some of you will be proudly calling them your better half—halves, rather. But this last statement is neither here nor there, it is only remarked in passing, as it were. What we want to tell you is how the other half, this co-ed half, lives—half the time.

To do this we shall be obliged to correct several wrong impressions afloat as to life at the Sem. Really and truly, to let you in on the inside, life at the Sem. is not one rosy dream of fudge and fun; no. It is not one happy round of Saturday nights and walking "around Faculty."

You may think that life at the Sem. is an easy one. You may even think that the girls sit around all the time between classes in their prettiest dresses, a smile upon their rosy lips, a fudge box in their hands—or something like that. If so, you are mistaken in your conclusions. So much for the misinformed.

And now for the ignorant. The girls, to tell the real facts of the case, have their cares. They spend their anxious moments in dodging the professor's eye, just like the—what shall we call them? Perhaps "eds" if the girls are "co-eds"—just like the eds, then. They have their dickerings, and wild pursuits of second-hand books. They have their times of working up ex-es and their seasons of accounting for their unaccountable cuts, just like the eds. So much for the ignorant.

While the other Half is a serious half (half the time), there are, of course, a few butterflies at the Sem. We even know of one girl who used to say that she simply lived from Tuesdays to Fridays, but now that she does not like ice cream anymore she's decided that higher education for women is a mistake. This cryptic remark—we got that phrase from a magazine we were reading this morning—means only that we—they, I mean—have ice cream for dinner on Tuesday and Friday at the Sem. But she was only one girl, and one whom the discerning will at once brand as frivolous. Besides, her baneful influence has been removed. As said, now and then there's a giddy one who cribs or tr— —no, not that for half of the Other Half does that a half of half the time.

Of course the Other Half has its diversions, and one form of these we want to tell you about. It would not be mathematically correct to class under the "half-the-time" head, for it comes only once a week: we mean the Sunday night "Scold." This weekly scold breaks the horrid monotony of the co-ed's Sunday; it is supposed to be quite as comforting as the "smoker" of the above-mentioned eds. This Sunday Scold takes place in semi-darkness. (N. B. That is not intended for a joke.) Here the Other Half works off the depression that comes from being a shut-in-half all day. It is at the Scold that the machinery of local government is adjusted. It is at the Scold that the Other Half waxes bold and shouts in unison what "we ought to do about it." (Usually at this point in the Scold there comes a knock at the door and a request to observe Sabbath in a more seeming way, whereby a new subject for complaint is introduced.)

It is at the Scold that the important wrongs in the life of the Other Half are discussed, such as the ten o'clock rule and the bridge limit of the evening promenade, and the unvarying Sunday night olive-and-cheese lunch.

But Sunday is not so bad a day as we have just made out, for at church the Other Half gets a chance to wear its newest finery and to see—well, the minister.

But we are talking too long. We might go on at considerable length about the virtuous acts of the other half, but for three restraining reasons: A deep sense of modesty, a deeper regard for the truth, and a very deep fear of trespassing upon the divine prerogative of men; the right to talk all they please. We hope, however, that we have accomplished our declared purpose, and we feel that we are not unjustified in claiming that through our efforts the class of the ignorant and misinformed has been considerably diminished in numbers.

THE JUNIOR PROM

WHEN Bucknell University was founded, it was explicitly stated by those self-sacrificing builders, that should the school ever become co-educational, by no means would the young ladies of the institution be permitted to dance. Accordingly when the bars to the co-eds were taken down, it was done so with the strict understanding that there should be no dancing whatever, not to think of a public function. From year to year numerous pleadings were brought before the "Powers that Be," that the Semites might attend the Prom—but prayers, pleadings, tears, and sighs were of no avail.

This year, however, when the ever-glorious class gave their Prom, the stern and never-bending will was forced to "wave his hand" in assent. True, this decision was arrived at after years of trying deliberation; many tears had been shed, and not infrequently have painful sighs been given vent. But at last the old long-cherished tradition was set aside. This act met the approval of the rest of the faculty, who gave the following reasons for their decision:

I. All other colleges allow the privilege of dancing, and Bucknell is decidedly behind the times in thus restricting the ladies of the institution.

II. Society of a high and polished type is one of the most important factors in a complete education; and nowhere can better society be found than at the Annual Prom.

III. Bucknell is severely criticised for its useless conservatism and narrow-mindedness. Therefore these failings ought to be corrected.

This stand taken by the faculty was announced one morning in chapel. So great was the joy over the new privilege about to be granted that college was closed for three days for general merry-making.

Extensive preparations were now made for this great event and on the appointed evening we girls started for the Prom, chaperoned by our preceptress Miss Bush.

We were met at the door by the reception committee, which consisted of four members of the class. Then we were introduced to the patrons and patronesses, Dr. and Mrs. Harris, Dr. and Mrs. Groff, Prof. and Mrs. Owens.

This painful duty done, we were next attracted by the decorations, which were both tasteful and beautiful. The class colors, Yale Blue and White, were used very effectively and the color scheme was everywhere predominant.

But we were not long to be left by ourselves enjoying all these new and beautiful sights, for programs were distributed and quickly filled. As it was thought fitting that the faculty should have places of honor, the orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Aviragnet, was composed of eight pieces as follows: Violins, Profs. Phillips, Davis, and Weithaase; cornet, Prof. Martin; trombone, Dr. Rockwood; double bass, Dr. Bartol; drum, Prof. Colestock; piano, Prof. Hamlin. The musicians were seated behind a bank of ferns and palms, and during the whole evening played all the latest popular airs.

The orchestra now struck up the familiar notes of "Uncle Sammy" and the Prom was off. The Grand march was led by Prof. Lindemann and Miss Bush. Then came an array of the celebrities of 1906: Mr. Rumsey and Miss Mall, Mr. Park and Miss Lane, Mr. Brown and Miss Bacon, "Dick" Stauffer and Miss Meek, Mr. Schoch and Miss Unger (Mr. Schoch having deigned on this occasion to dance with one of those "pugilistic Sem kids.") The rest of the class and friends were in line according to size, until the line looked as though the family had left the boot and Mother and Father Goose were in the lead.

Very interesting it was to see the funny things going on. In one corner of the room Prof. Keough darted after his partner with a pickle in one hand and a sandwich in the other. A little later Heffling, while making one of his fancy turns of the lancers, walked upon his lady's train and went sprawling on the floor, much to the amusement of all. Just then as the call "Promenade all" was given, Hilbert in his out-burst of high spirits accidentally bumped his head on a rafter in the ceiling. The dance had to be suspended for some moments until he could be carried off the floor and taken to a doctor's office. Hereupon Dr. Gundy put in his appearance with his bottle of iodine ready for other accidents. Timely his presence, too, for Rumsey dropped his "cud of Black-Jack," and Dr. Groff, while tipping his fantastic toe, slipped on the cud and fell, going through the floor.

And thus the dance went on until everyone showed by their looks that it was time to go home. The orchestra, as they sat there weary and heated with their handkerchiefs tucked in their collars, looked very much like a collection of wilted flowers. At one o'clock our chaperone announced that it was time to depart. Accordingly after getting our wraps and bidding adieu to our hosts we set out for home, feeling that our first Prom was one of the most enjoyable events of our lives.

DON'T CRY, LITTLE BOY, DON'T CRY

Spenser Tillinghast is harrassed to death,
He works with might and will;
He labors hard both day and night,
His empty head to fill.

We wonder how he works his "dad"
Those artful pulls to get,
His placid brow is calm, serene,
And ne'er bedewed with sweat.

Bertie Baker, that bad, bold man,
Falls in love with as many girls as he can.
He rushes them hard for almost a week,
Then drops them "kaflop," new conquests to seek.

Frank Caruthers who hails from the west,
Woood a maid in town with much zest.
So hard did he press her
To make her say "Yes sir,"
He broke three ribs in her vest.

ASTRAY IN A FOREIGN LAND

The scenes are laid in Hotel Thompson, Fourth Street, Lewisburg, Pa., and in West College

PART I

Enter, "Bogy" Bliss, fresh from the post office, deeply absorbed in contents of a small book recently edited in Washington—only the fifty-ninth this term. Turns to two gentlemen, one from Lehigh, other from Lafayette. Speaking: "I say, fellows, have you ever been in Washington? No? Well, you have missed half of what you are really put here for."

First gentleman, from seat on table: "Yes, I guess it's great. You know at Lafayette our seniors always take a trip there on a special train."

Second gentleman: "I guess a trip to Easton would suit me. We Lehigh fellows always did roll high. Darn it, you know that's the place for me. Guess I'll go back and enter freshman next year."

First Gentleman: "You can't do that at Lafayette. You know, old fellow, they are terribly strict there. It seems funny to me when I think of how we ever got through. The times we used to have in old Kuyler Hall! But, of course, Lafayette is different from most places." "Bogy" Bliss, from Columbia you know, looking up from letter: "Don't they skate funny here? Now in Washington we are all excellent skaters, and we live on tennis courts and baseballs."

Second gentleman: "Speaking of sport, at Lehigh we are the boys. I'd like to tell you fellows about my freshman banquet. We———."

First gentleman: "Oh, at Lafayette we have the best of——."

"Bogy" Bliss: "Sure you don't. Washington is the only place for swell banquets. Why, don't you fellows know that Washington is the most important city in the world? All the important trains leave there. Why, the Buffalo Flyer is made up there."

Second gentleman: "Speaking of railroads, how about our little trolley line? No Lewisburg trolleys in mine—only to get out of the plagued society here. At Lehigh we have the real society. Me for Lehigh."

First gentleman : Now, at Lafayette we have the blooded Dutch, and you fellows of course know them."

"Bogy" Bliss : "Society, did I hear you fellows say? Why, Washington is the fashion center; pike my collar if you don't helieve it. No, sir, we are the bloods. We show the niggers where they stand." Curtain.

PART II

Scene, West College. Time, night. Syles, Henry, Bogy in bed fast asleep. Big Chief Thompson enters just in time to hear a faint murmur of "Lafayette, Lafayette, Lafayette," followed by "Lehigh, Lehigh, Lehigh," and a woeful voice exclaiming : "And they changed the name to George Washington University." Curtain.

THE WILD ASTER

The hoary god has kissed the flow'rs,
That filled the fields with bloom ;
Grim death has breathed in crystal show'rs
Athwart the spider's loom,
Her spangled lace, for fairy bow'rs,
Festoons the grasses' plume.

Yet starry asters deck the leas
And fringe the desert heath ;
They smile to see the tawny trees
Shake all their gold beneath ;
With aftermath, they charm the bees,
And yield their perfumed breath.

Unlike the violet and the rose,
That early doth unfold ;
The aster lingers late to pose,
A peer, when days are cold,
And Time upon the year bestows
His visage stern and bold.

Benignant Pow'r, that strews the globe
With beauty all the year !
Whose age is not for man to probe ;
Whose youth will reappear,
Tho' death lurk near, e'en when the robe
Of earth is brown and sere.

BE A BOY

"Boys will be boys," the old folks say,
And turn their hoary heads away,
When a football game begins.
But what's the use of being a man?
Be a boy as long as you can;
Old age soon enough begins.

If life's a burden and full of care,
And trouble's loomin' up everywhere,
Smile, sir, and be a boy again!
What's the use of shunnin' the droll?
Seek the fabled fountain of old,
Smile, sir, and be a boy again!

Let dignity take a profitable poise;
Learn to be humble and join with the boys;
Laugh, sir, and be a boy again!
What's the use of wisdom or wealth,
If the price you pay is perfect health?
Laugh, sir, and be a boy again!

A BAD YOLK

IN PSYCHOLOGY:

PREXY—"Mr. Stephenson, you may discuss the topic on "Acquired Meaning."

STEVE—"Well, the chick in the egg is pecking the shell to get "acquired meaning."

MY IDEAL

Could I but pen my thoughts of thee,
Or paint the pictures of my mind ;
What gems of Love afloat would be ?
What harmony of paint and rhyme ?

Thy crowning glory—Raven Hair,
Thy dimpled cheeks and eyes of jet ;
Nought will in beauty's realm compare ;
Nor in the universe—and yet—

Where shall I go in Beauty's sphere
When thoughts of thee I wish to find ;
Or metaphor of one so dear,
I'm lost in vacancy of mind ?

Can poet's fancy take the air,
And wreath it in some chosen shape ;
Of loving thoughts of one so fair,
That in thy heart may find a place ?

Could I hut be that poet then,
And sing some loving song for thee,
What music would flow from my pen ?
What mortal then more happy be ?

WHAT THE WOGGLE BUG SAYS

Out—out are the stars—out every one,
And over the sea and the sky,
Over the earth, deep darkness dawns,
And over the heavens high.

Dead, dead are the people—alas, dead all,
And all alone am I
Amid the deep darkness that seethes and sways,
And vast formless things that cry.

Now out of the darkness a winged beast
Draws near and demons come,
And the beast devours the formless things,
And the demons its presence shun.

And the beast exclaims with a voice of fire,
“Dust even to dust returns,”
And a silence falls on the desolate earth—
A silence that scars and burns.

The earth is crumbling beneath my feet—
I sway o'er the deathless abyss,
And tho' it is all a dream I cry,
“Oh God, what meaneth this?”

Oh h—, you're drunk.

—THE BLUE-PENCIL

A DILEMMA

I have written about the hayin',
About the mowin' and the sleighin',
 About the harvest-moon a hangin' overhead.
About the porker fat and gruntin',
About the boys a goin' huntin',
 About the autumn-leaves fallin' brown and red.

I have written about the pumpkin'
About the "bald-head," bull-head pumpkin,
 Who was skatin' Nellie home when church was out.
And in fact so much I've written,
That I'm scarce a subject gettin',
 Till I don't know what the H— to write about.

On Being in Style

When it comes to Style

In Men's Furnishings and Tailor-made Clothing, "it takes all kinds of people to make a world."

Some make it an amusing world

They try so hard to be in style that they are chiefly conspicuous and ludicrous.

Some say they don't care for style : "Give me good, becoming clothes : never mind the style." If they were sincere, they would be pathetic. They are neither ; gentlemen are never wholly indifferent to style.

The great majority occupy middle ground. They know that best style is never conspicuous, and always becoming. They regard clothes as more than a mere covering for the body : and they know that a man's clothes are, in a way, an expression of his taste and character.

These are the men

BECAUSE—The skill of the making balances with the quality of the materials.

BECAUSE—They maintain their freshness and beauty.

BECAUSE—They satisfy the men who wear them.

John B. Stetson Company,

Retail Department, 1108 Chestnut St.,

PHILADELPHIA.

HAVE YOU EVER STOPPED TO CONSIDER HOW DELIGHTFULLY

convenient it would be to have a dainty lavatory with hot and cold running water in your dressing chamber or sleeping apartment?

If your room contained a lavatory, it would be vastly more convenient and home-like and you would not be required up on rising in the morning to partially dress in order to reach the bathroom, possibly to find it already occupied. Little need be said of the comfort it would afford in performing the afternoon and evening toilet.

There is no more appropriate place for individual lavatories than in the private apartments of students in universities and colleges. A lavatory fixture in each student's apartment would lend refinement and individuality, cultivate scrupulous cleanliness and make college life doubly attractive.

Upon request, it will give us pleasure to send illustrated literature showing our beautiful "Standard" Lavatories, with information as to arranging them.
